FOR COLLEGES

State-Related Status Unique

By WILLIAM E. DEIBLER
HARRISBURG (AP) — How would you explain to an out-of-stater what a state-related university is?

The state senator who asked that question recently added: "There ain't no such animal anywhere else."

He's right. State-related universities are a Pennsylvania innovation. We have three: Pennsylvania State and Temple universities and the University of Pittsburgh.

Penn State, a land grant school established in 1855, always has been basically a public institution. Both Pitt and Temple formerly were private schools. They were made state-related institutions by acts of the legislature—Temple in 1965 and Pitt in 1966.

Financial difficulties forced Temple and Pitt to seek state-related status. Both institutions, like many other private schools in Pennsylvania, had been receiving some state funds, but not enough to get them out of the red. State-related status has made them eligible for more state funds.

When institutions become state-related, in effect, they enter into a contract with the commonwealth to provide certain public education services. These include low-cost tuition, the continuance of basic programs and the creation of special programs of interest to the state.

In return, the state provides annual appropriations to the schools for these purposes:

—Tuition supplements, which reduce costs for students.
—Maintenance, to help pay for continuing basic programs.
—Special appropriations for particular programs such as medicine and nursing.

A school given state-related status agrees to become part of the so-called Commonwealth System of Higher Education. This gives the state the right to appoint 12 of the institution's 36 trustees.

The governor and the superintendent of the Department of Public Instruction automatically become trustees. In addition, the governor is empowered to appoint two trustees, the President Pro Tem of the Senate four, and the Speaker of the House four.

This unique blend of private and public education has been called "creative statism at its best" by Dr. David Kurtzman, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh.

In an appearance before the joint House-Senate Appropriations Committee last week, Kurtzman predicted that other states would follow Pennsylvania's example in creating state-related schools.

"I think what you have done here will have a great deal of influence on American education in the years to come," Kurtzman told the legislators.

Kurtzman pointed out that "the distinction that is made between private (and state) colleges and universities frequently is highly illusory" today. "Some of the institutions which commonly are regarded as totally private — well-endowed and highly respected schools academically — receive half and more of their funds from government sources . . . mostly from the federal government, in the form of research support and scholarships. Yet, they are still 'private,'" he said.

Competition between state-owned and private schools, Kurtzman said, can be potentially ruinous to private institutions, many of which have done the bulk of the state's higher educational job in the past.

"And it also is, in every real sense, wasteful — for now the state must duplicate at public expense facilities which are already in existence and, in many cases, not fully used, he said.

A Cappella Choir Performs Tomorrow

Warren High School's A Cappella Choir will perform tomorrow night in their annual spring concert, under the direction of Carroll A. Fowler.

The spring concert will be presented at 8:15 p.m. in the Warren High auditorium. The program will include music which ranges from the hymns of Bach to the popular music of Hart and Rodgers.

There will be four groups in the program, divided into sacred, secular, madrigal, and popular music.

The sacred music includes "Sanctus" and "All Breathing Life, Sing and Praise Ye the Lord." Both are by Bach. There also will be a jazz-spiritual, "Ezekiel Saw De Whale," which features Corky Greenwood as bass soloist.

The secular music offers variety which will appeal to every taste. It includes "Spring," by Edward Grieg; "The Turtle Dove," arranged by Ralph Vaughn Williams; the "Russian Picnic," by Harvey Enders.

Denny DeLuca will be bass soloist on some numbers in this segment, and Barry Dietsch is tenor soloist.

The Madrigal Singer will sing a separate group of English, German, Italian and American selections. Sue Fogle will direct.

The final group of songs uses the setting of an old-fashioned soda parlor, where the students sing the popular love songs, "Tenderly," "While We're Young," "Isn't It Romantic?" and "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing." They will stand in small, informal groups in this presentation.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the chorus.

Girl Scouts Aid Family Burned Out

The Girl Scouts of Grand Valley have come to the aid of a family of eight who lost their home in a fire there early Monday morning.

Burned out was the Sheldon Baker family whose home was completely gutted by a blaze that also leveled a store next door.

Neighbors were able to carry out a quantity of household items before flames reached the two-story structure.

The scouts plan a shower at 7 p.m. Monday at the Grand Valley EUB Church fellowship hall.

Items are badly needed for five boys and one girl, sizes one to eight. Underclothing, socks and pajamas are requested as well as any type of bedding. Nothing was saved in the upstairs of the Baker residence.

The public is invited. Harold E. Williams, Grand Valley fire chief, said loss to the Baker home would run between $8,000 and $10,000 and to the 105-year-old Chamber's store in excess of $1,500.

The store was owned by Robert Chambers, who was in the process of selling the property to Baker. The store was not insured at the time of the fire. Arson is suspected, according to state police Cpl. William C. Kattner, who investigated at the request of Chief Williams.

Seek 1873 Signers' Descendants

Governor Raymond P. Shafer is looking for descendants of the 91 delegates who rewrote Pennsylvania's Constitution back in 1873.

Warren County was part of the 30th district for the 1873 convention, which also included Erie County.

Representing the district at the convention were Thomas Struthers of Warren County with Rasselas Brown and Charles O. Bowman.

Local resident who recognize any of these names are asked to let the governor know by dropping a note to his office at the Capitol, Harrisburg.

These descendants will be invited to a special ceremony planned for December 1 in Harrisburg. That's the day the limited Constitutional Convention will begin working on its recommendations for changing four sections of the 94-year basic state law, if voters approve on the convention question in Tuesday's primary election.

Shafer said voters are being asked to approve only a limited convention. It would deal only with updating the ancient justice of the peace system, saving the taxpayers millions annually on high interest payments, strengthen local government and guarantee legislative reapportionment every 10 years.

The governor stated that every recommendation of the convention would have to be submitted to the voters for their approval before it could become part of the constitution.

month and took down seven. Tennis courts have been cleaned and nets erected for play and repair and painting of baseball player benches had been completed. Workers also finished cutting brush from the river embankment along Pennsylvania ave. parkway.

Answered 30 Calls

Borough firemen last month responded to 24 still calls and six box alarms. They laid 1,550 feet of hose and traveled 147.8 miles in 13 hours and eight minutes. Fire loss was only $300. There were two false alarms and one mutual aid run. The men were schooled a total of 80 hours in fundamentals and first aid work. Several members completed ambulance attendant school and will receive certificates in the near future.

County Man Cited

Corry city police Saturday night cited a Youngsville man for reckless driving after apprehending him following a wild driving spree in the W. South S. Center st. area. Arrested was Thomas H. Strickland of Youngsville, who demanded an immediate hearing. Taken before Alderman Merle Ottaway, Strickland was fined $10 and ordered to pay $5 costs. He paid the $15 and was released.

LAKES MORE POPULAR

Study of Private Campgrounds Finished by Former Local Man

"Successful Private Campgrounds" is the title of a recent study by Wilbur F. LaPage, formerly of the U.S. Forest Service research unit at Irvine.

One conclusion LaPage reached was that the still waters of lakes and ponds are apparently more popular with campers than streams or rivers.

LaPage, now project leader at the Northeastern Forest Experiment Station's forest recreation research unit at Syracuse, N.Y., was named project leader at the Irvine laboratory in January, 1965; since then forest recreation research headquarters have been moved to Syracuse.

The data on which the campgrounds study is based was gathered at the 108 commercial campgrounds of New Hampshire in 1964.

"Private enterprise now provides the majority of camping facilities in the Northeastern States," LaPage reported. Private campgrounds outnumber the public facilities three to one in the entire region and seven to one in Maine.

Town Crier

... By Les Rickey

Everyone's talking about LSD, the new hallucinatory drug that allows one to perceive colors like never before and experience mind-expanding consciousness beyond all previous events of one's life.

Now I don't even understand the terminology of that little bit of wisdom, let alone the phenomena behind it. How can a person expand his mind? Does it stretch like a rubber band? Is it malleable, like funny putty?

Well, the hippies tell me that this isn't what they mean. What they're trying to tell mundane, obsolete people like me is that it's development, man, like beyond the self, it's psychedelic, and the world takes on new meaning.

Meaning what? That's not even English, much less communication. So then you get the hocus-pocus that it's a trip into your mind.

Fine, but who would want to? The mind, it seems to me, is a rather messy place to take a trip into. It's cluttered up with garbage fees, whether the seat belt is fastened and what if Ralph Nader is really right, and whatever happened to John De la Courte, the French kid who put garlic in the radiator during your senior year. There are little neuroses and anxieties, the end products of living in a world that is, in itself, neurotic.

Take a trip into a place like that? Forget it, Charlie. That's like buying a ticket to the garbage dump on your vacation. Like, who needs it?

ON FACULTY

Rev. Bielenberg Joins Chautauqua

CHAUTAUQUA — Internationally known photographer and lecturer, the Rev. Herman Bielenberg, FPSA, of Warren, will join the faculty of the Chautauqua Institution Summer Schools this season to teach courses in photography.

Well-known in the immediate area for his lectures and colored slide shows, he replaces Miss Josephine Herrick, who plans to spend the summer traveling.

In world-wide competition, Bielenberg has achieved the highest possible rating. He is one of the first five star exhibitors with more than 960 acceptances for more than 164 different slides in officially recognized salons. Twice, he has placed first among all international exhibitors according to listing of the Photographic Society of America.

Honors and awards won by him are numerous. Through the Photographic Society of America, he received the coveted La Belle Award. This gold scroll, previously presented to

"Life," and "Arizona Highways," and "National Geographic," is inscribed as follows: "To Reverend Herman Bielenberg FPSA for outstanding contribution to the art and science of color photography by his use of medium in bringing inspiration and enjoyment to numerous and widely diversified groups."

Since 1946, he has been a member of the Photographic Society of America. He was honored by the Society in 1950 with an Associateship (APSA) and in 1956 with a Fellowship (FPSA) for his accomplishments in the field of photography, his promotion of the use of audiovisuals in religious education, and his service to camera clubs.

A graduate of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo., Bielenberg has served parishes in Abita Springs, Louisiana; Cabot, Pennsylvania; and Oil City, Pennsylvania. For fifteen years, he was a member of the National Board for Audio Visuals of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod.

In 1958, he entered the lecture field and has presented programs nationwide to schools, camera clubs, churches, garden clubs, conventions, civic groups, etc. He has completed several coast-to-coast program tours for the National Lecture Program of the Photographic Society of America.

visits; and where the campers came from, how far they traveled, and past camping experience.

He found that shorter and less frequent visits occurred at campgrounds that were small, new, had low investments, and had no water for swimming.

LaPage drew a few general conclusions about more effective campgrounds planning and management:

1. Visit length and frequency can be very useful in analyses of recreation enterprise potential if influences such as preferences, purpose of visits, and past visits are carefully controlled.

2. The study provided only superficial clues to enterprise quality and success. Quality in recreational experiences also involves a lot of good taste, alert business judgment, and hard work.

3. This type of study may help to take some of the risk out of private forest-recreation enterprises. But there will always be an element of risk because factors that affect the market, supply, population, and policy are continually changing.

Copies of the report are available from the Northeastern Forest Experiment Station, 6316 Market St., Upper Darby, Pa. 19082.

LaPage joined the Irvine unit in 1962, after serving a year with the Forest Service in Utah. He also worked six summers for the New Hampshire Forestry and Recreation Department at several state parks.

A native of Winchendon, Mass., he holds bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of New Hampshire.

Boro Police Report

During the month of April the borough police desk processed 765 telephone calls dealing with requests for information. Police officers answered 172 calls; conducted 19 minor investigations and 23 major. Stolen goods were recovered in the amount of $2,972.05. Officers guarded money in transit six times and answered eight fire calls. There were 16 dogs disposed of and 24 transients or overnight lodgers accommodated. Seven talks and lectures were given.

OPEN CHURCH WILL BE OBSERVED by Sally Joan Scalise for her marriage to Thomas Lloyd Stewart in St. Joseph Church, Saturday, May 13th. The Nuptial Mass will be celebrated at 11 o'clock by the Rev. Father Norman Smith, assistant pastor. Miss Scalise is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benny J. Scalise of Warren, and Mr. Stewart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Spillane of Brockton, Massachusetts.

AN INAUGURAL BALL will be held by the Jaycees on Saturday, May 13th, at the Inn of the Three Flags. This is the night, of course, when Jaycees and Jaycettes officers are installed and has nothing whatever to do with Washington, D. C., or Harrisburg. A cocktail hour will begin at 7 p.m., in the private dining room. Dinner will be served at 8.

A GROWING CONTROVERSY over the church's participation and involvement in public affairs has led the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church to invite Mrs. Frederick Rule to speak. Mrs. Rule is a social worker with a background that includes, among other things, YWCA; New England Home For Little Wanderers in Boston; Child and Family Service; Syracuse University School of Social Work; Onondaga County Department of Social Welfare, where she has been staff development director since February 1965. According to Mrs. Reese Campbell of the association, not only are members of the Women's Association urged to attend the gathering at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, but both men and women of the church, and interested members of the community are invited to attend.

RAIN OR SHINE IT'S "FUN FAIR" TIME TODAY at Home Street School. The affair will be held under the Big Top if the weather demands—so no one needs to stay home. One of the most attractive of the many attractions is "Silhouettes" by Warren Art League members. This is the cutting of children's, or adults', silhouettes which will be suitable for framing later on if you wish. The variety of games includes "Spud Golf" and there are refreshments enough to substitute for the family's dinner tonight—Hot dogs, sloppy Joes, coffee, pop and cupcakes. The meats are 25 cents per serving; coffee and pop 10 cents each; tickets for the many concessions will be sold at the door for 5 cents each.

THE WARREN MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION is meeting on Saturday evening, too. This is the time for the annual fellowship dinner and it will be held at Epworth Methodist Church at 6 o'clock. All reservations were to have been made by this time at the Epworth Church. Mrs. Donald H. Spencer will display her bronze tracings and give all sorts of interesting information about her hobby. All ministers and their wives are urged to attend.

AND, THE BROKENSTRAW GARDEN CLUB of Youngsville is meeting tomorrow at the National Forge Clubhouse on Wilder Field for a 6:30 p.m. tureen dinner. Mrs. Evelyn Overturn, home economist for Pennsylvania Electric Company, will be the special speaker. Serving on committee for the evening are Mrs. Pauline Elghemey, Miss Marjorie Finlan, Miss Bonnie Rowland, Mrs. Lucy Anderson.

MINIATURES: Farrachettes will have their May meeting in the hospitality room of the Northwest Savings and Loan tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Regular business will be discussed by Zontians at their luncheon meeting tomorrow at 12:15 in the Blue Manor. Mrs. Jenny Book is chairman of arrangements and assisting are Mrs. Mary Dahl and Mrs. Isabelle Yaegle.

Central WCTU meets tomorrow, too, at 1 p.m. in the First Methodist Church.

The 1942 WHS Class committee is meeting tomorrow evening at 8 in the home of Mrs. C. E. Barrett, 5 Grant street. All who are interested are to attend.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's first wife was from a prominent New England family. She was also very beautiful. Her main trouble was a weakness for men. She slept with just about every fellow on campus. The ones she missed, she caught up with after her marriage.

When her husband learned how busy she was he got a divorce. But his mother, who was very proud to have this woman for a daughter-in-law, continues to treat her as if she were still in the family.

I do not mind that they have lunch together three times a week but I don't like her having their wedding pictures (now 10 years old) all over the house. Our children are at the question-asking stage and they keep inquiring, "Who is the lady with daddy?"

Both my husband and I have asked her to remove the pictures, but they remain on the piano, on the mantle and on the vestibule wall. What can we tell the children? — M. BARRIST

DEAR M.: Tell the children the truth—that the lady was daddy's first wife. Of course, it is unkind and thoughtless of your mother-in-law to behave this way, but obviously she intends to continue, for reasons of her own, and my advice is to say no more about it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We have three good children. Whenever one of our kids gets an honor or does well in something, my husband says, "My son was highpoint man on the soccer team this year," or "My daughter was elected vice president of her class."

When we are waiting for the boy to return the family car and he is 20 minutes late, my husband screams, "Where in the world is YOUR son?" "Why doesn't that kid have a sense of responsibility?"

Last night our daughter was talking on the telephone and she let the bathtub overflow. We discovered it when the living room ceiling began to drip. "My husband blew his top and shrieked, 'What's the matter with YOUR daughter anyway? She hasn't the brains of a two-year-old!'"

I am sick and tired of listening to my husband brag about HIS children when they perform well, and complain about MY children when they do poorly. How can I cure him of this? — MRS. IRRITATED

DEAR MRS.: I wish I could suggest a cure but, alas, there is none. Your husband (and thousands of others) will continue to claim the kids when they do him proud, and give them to his wife when they disappoint him. Accept this as a figure of speech because it is just that—and nothing more.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a woman 29 years old who wants to be married more than anything in the world. Yet I am just about to break my fourth engagement. There must be something radically wrong with me and I don't know what it is.

My three former fiancés are all married and seem to be getting along beautifully. Whenever I see them with their lovely families, I say to myself, "You fool, THAT could have been you!" Can you help me overcome this frightening problem? — MONA

DEAR MONA: No, because I don't know what the problem is. I can only guess. Do you REALLY want to be married or are you just afraid of being single? Have you created a dream husband which no flesh-and-blood male can equal?

You need to talk about this with someone who can help you unmask your fears. And the sooner the better.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Benner-Beck Wedding
Vows Pledged In Chapel

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Benner of 515 Mill street, Mt. Vernon, Indiana, attended the recent nuptial service uniting in marriage their daughter, Phyllis, to Captain Jack E. Beck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Beck of Clarendon who also were present. The double ring candle-light ceremony was held in the Chapel of Bunker Air Force Base near Peru, Indiana. Major Joseph Stuller, chaplain, officiated.

The couple pledged their vows before an altar arranged with ferns, chrysanthemums and gladioli. Seven-branched candles held the lighted tapers. The bride wore a powder blue silk shantung suit and carried a bridal bouquet of sweetheart roses. Her sister, Miss Norma Benner, as maid of honor and only attendant, was dressed in yellow linen and carried a bouquet of daisies and stephanotis.

Principal Addresses
PTA

At the final meeting of the Market St. P.T.A., Henry Powell, principal of Beatty Junior High School, explained the changes to take place in the seventh grade program for next year.

In the past, English and Social Studies have been double periods. Next year there will be one English class devoted to grammar and composition and a new reading class designed to improve reading skills and comprehension will be introduced, Mr. Powell said.

Social Studies will be separated into history and geography. One assistant principal will be assigned exclusively to the seventh grade and its problems.

Shop and homemaking will be increased to three periods per week.

One male and one female gym teacher will be added to the faculty.

Mr. Powell continued, for the first time, special education students will be assigned alphabetically to home room, art, and shop.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. David Winans; vice-president, Mrs. Howard Thompson; second vice president, Mrs. Robert Sokolski; secretary, Mrs. James Kemp; treasurer, Mr. John Zavinski.

There will be a district P.T.A. conference in Bradford on May 29. Everyone is welcome to attend. For further details, contact Mrs. William Harbert, 723-3816.

Pairs And Spares
Meet At St. John's
Lutheran Church

On Sunday evening, May 7, the second meeting of "Pairs and Spares" since its reorganization was held at St. John's Lutheran Church in Pleasant Township. A gathering of twenty-five people enjoyed a presentation by Dr. William M. Cushman of historical houses and scenes of Warren County through slides and lecture.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Arthur Anderson and Mrs. William Liberty. Next month's hostesses will be Mrs. Melvin Poling and Mrs. Martin Carlson.

At a short business meeting conducted by the president, Arthur Anderson, the group decided to purchase new table tops for the church school tables and a speaker's lectern.

A tentative schedule of the group's activities for the year was announced by the program chairman, Mrs. Donald Koebley and Lyle Snaveley. Next month's meeting will be held Sunday evening, June 18, and will be in the form of a bowling party at Riverside Lanes.

Jehovah's Witnesses
Assembly Held

A Bible film, "God Cannot Lie", was the highlight of the circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses at Floral Hall, Dunkirk, New York, Sunday afternoon. A capacity crowd of 1050 watched as the Bible story was revealed on the screen. Louis R. Beda, from world headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses, narrated the 90-minute color film.

Mr. Beda concluded the seminar with a talk entitled, "Serving With Everlasting Life in View". In explaining the importance of serving now, Mr. Beda said, "We see evidence around us that God's Kingdom has taken power to rule and that within this generation it will bring in a new order on this earth—bringing everlasting life."

Theodore Smith, presiding minister of the Warren congregation, said that arrangements are made semi-annually for assemblies like the one held in Dunkirk this past weekend.

Betrothed

The engagement of her daughter, Peggy Ann Bennett, to John Chiodo has been announced by Mrs. Josephine Bennett of 247 Lum Blvd., Farrell, Pennsylvania. The bride-elect is also the daughter of the late Mr. Harry Bennett. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. John Chiodo of 1324 Market street Extension, Warren, and the late Mrs. Geraldine Chiodo.

Miss Bennett, a Farrell Area High School graduate is in her senior year of nursing at the Jameson Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, New Castle, Pennsylvania. Following her graduation on August 9, the bride-elect will be on the staff at Shenango Valley Osteopathic Hospital in Farrell.

May 14th Date Set
For Confirmation

St. John's Lutheran Church, Pleasant Township, will receive eight young people as confirmed members of the congregation on Pentecost Sunday, May 14. The Confirmation Service at the 9:30 a.m. worship will mark completion of a three-year course of instruction in church history, catechetical study, and related subjects. The class is the first to be confirmed following this three years of study.

Members of the class include: Glenn Alan Eschborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eschborn; Debra Maxine Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gail Hansen; Terry Frederick Lyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lyle; and Mrs. Robert Orth; Dorene

Kay Nobles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Nobles; Jon Andrew Petersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Allen Petersen; Jan Rieder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Rieder; Mark Frederick Schaeffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Schaeffer.

Following confirmation by the pastor, the Rev. James M. McCormick, each member of the class will receive a copy of the Service Book And Hymnal as a gift from the church, presented by Gail Hansen, secretary of Church Council.

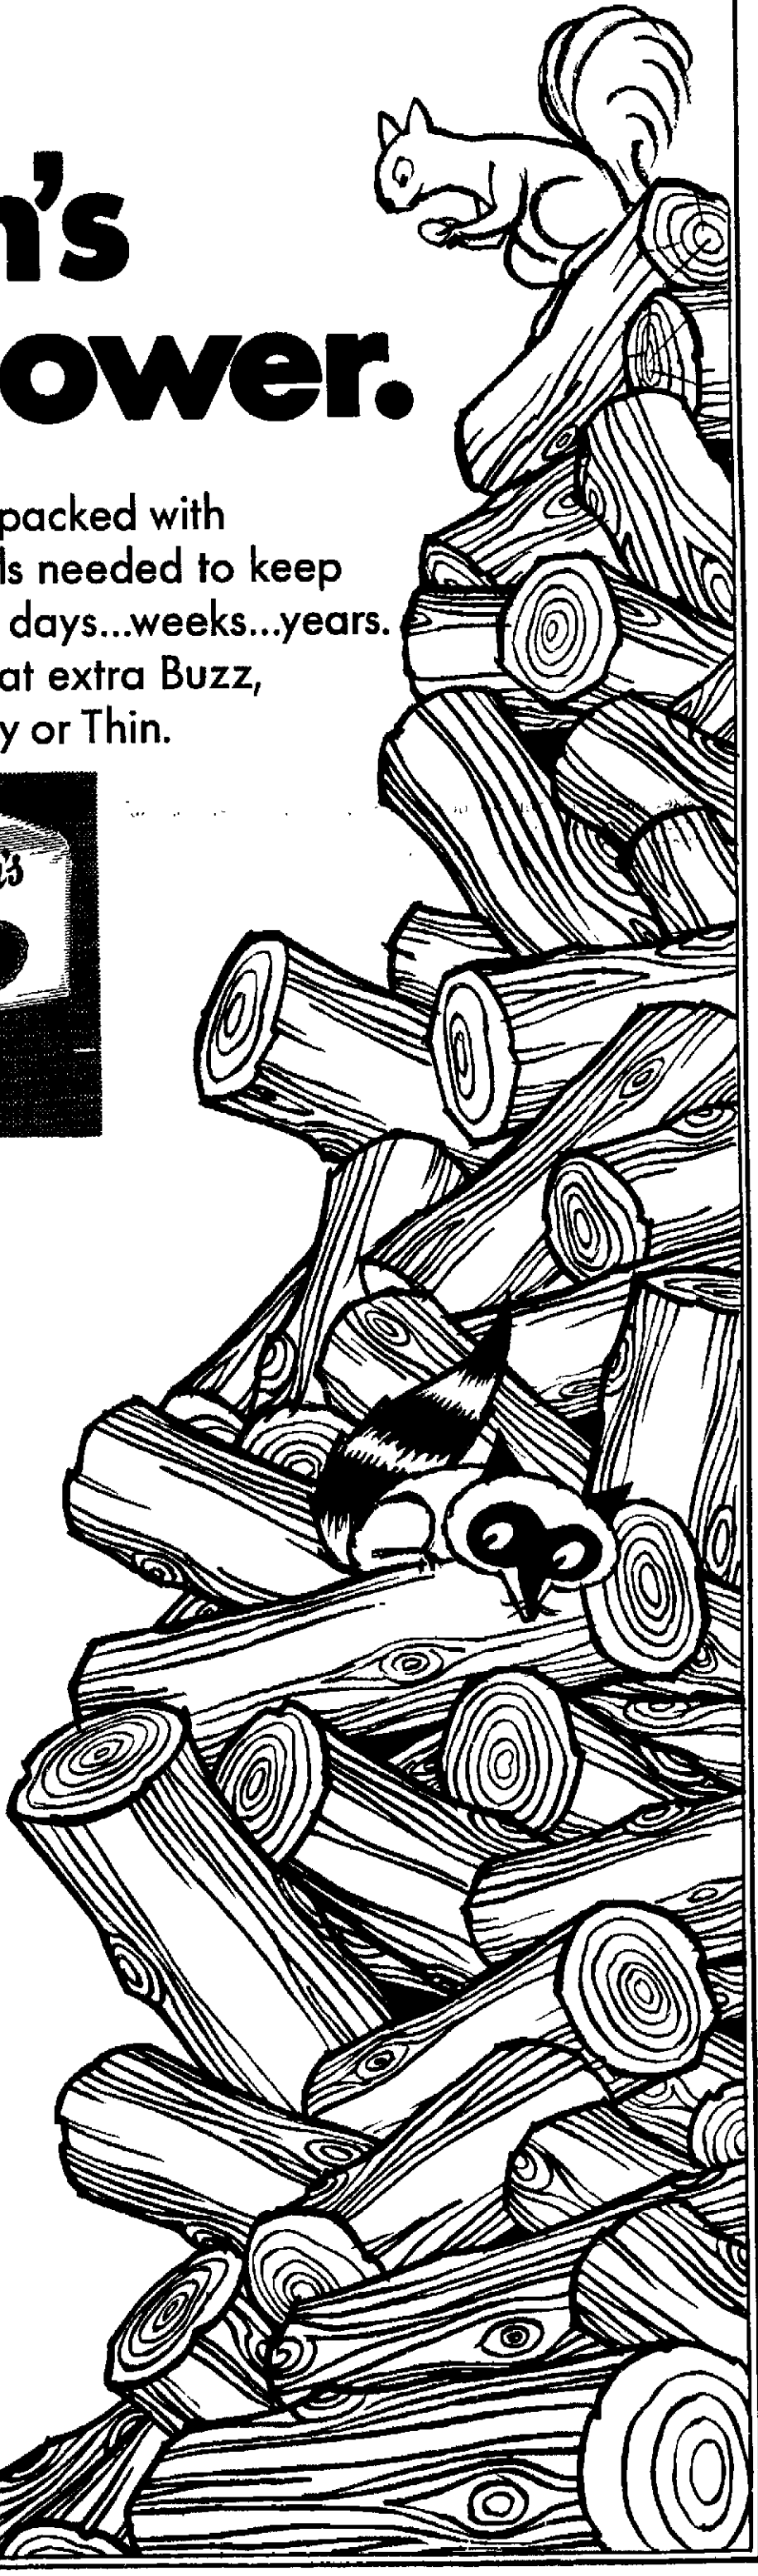

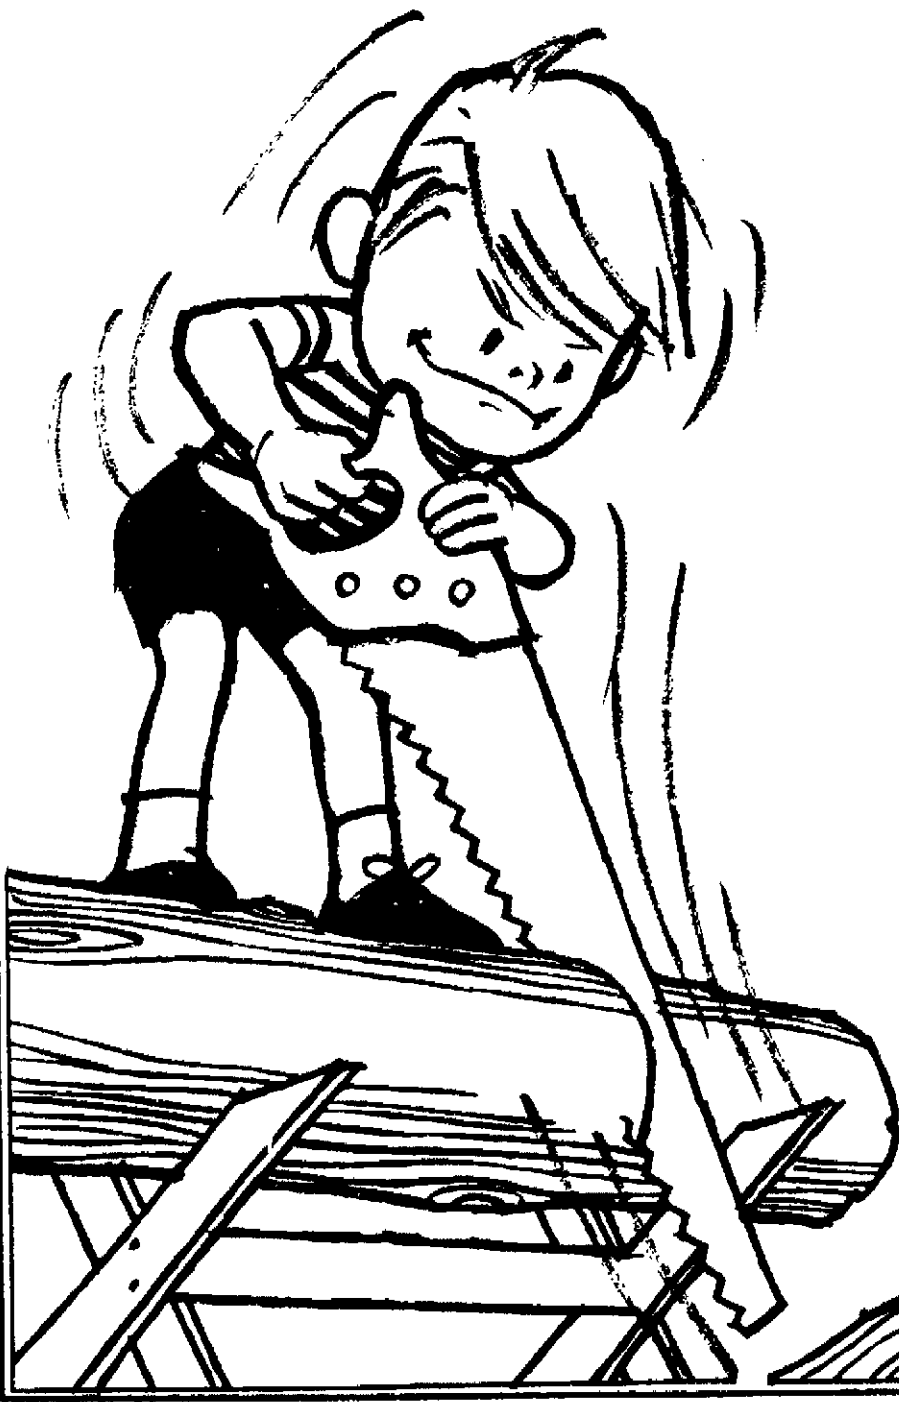

As a special project marking their confirmation, members of the class voted to assist the church property committee with spring care of the shrubbery and grounds around the church.

The New You Mailbag

DEAR EMILY WILKENS:

WAISTLINE WHITTLES

I have a slender figure. My only problem is a rather thick waistline. Do you know of a really good way to slim down this area?

Mrs. Inez M. Exercises will whittle down your waistline. These two are relatively painless:

LONDON LOOK

Is it true that the clear, rosy complexions for which English women are famous are due to the damp climate?

Joan C. I think the more important factor is that English women tend to do a great deal of walking in all sorts of weather. Try a good long walk each and every day, even when it's cold or wet outside, to bring a rosy glow to your all-American cheeks. Lift your head high, pull in your tummy and derriere, breathe in and out deeply, and you'll return home feeling and looking like a "New You."

HIDDEN CULPRIT

I shampoo my hair thoroughly every few days, and don't wear a hairpiece, yet my hair seems to pick up odors awfully quickly. Have I overlooked anything in my search for the culprit?

Elinor W. Check your shower cap. Odors trapped in an old or unwashed cap can be transferred to clean hair as quickly as the time it takes to hop in and out of the tub. Wash your shower cap frequently and replace it often.

In fact, while you're at it, check all your headgear—hats, hairnets, scarves, etc.—just in case!

SHAVING SPRAY

No matter how carefully I shave my legs, I get a stinging rash afterwards. How can I soothe it?

Frances R. The type of medicated spray used for healing cuts and bruises is marvelous for taking away the sting of a shaving rash. It works, too, as an antiseptic healer. Keep it handy for after-shave use. Your legs will feel a million percent better.

FUZZY WUZZY

The hair around my hairline is very fuzzy. I don't like to use heavy hair creams or wax sticks. I'm at school all day, without much time between classes, and I'd like my hair to look neat at all times with a minimum of fuss. Do you know of a quick "neatening" treatment?

Betty E. Invest in a small brush (a nail brush with a handle works well). Wet it slightly, then shake out thoroughly. If you brush stray hairs with the damp brush whenever you have a free minute they should stay tamed and in place.

Emily Wilkens welcomes letters, but cannot undertake to answer each one. She will use questions in her column of general interest. Address your letters to Emily Wilkens, c/o this newspaper.

Volunteers Wanted

"Newcomers, members, volunteers and friends—please don't wait for us to call you, just come to the Annual Tea of the Warren General Hospital Auxiliary... are the words of WGH Auxiliary itself. The tea is to take place this Friday at 1:30 in the conference room of Warren General Hospital. Newcomers in the community will be extended a special welcome.

Mr. Robert Kinney, hospital administrator, recently told the members of the Auxiliary through their newsletter "as the fiscal year end draws near, patient statistics in each department reveal more care was rendered to patients than ever recorded in the history of the hospital. Without your (Auxiliary) participation, the institution would not have progressed at its present pace."

This statement of gratitude is indicative of the service and activity of the Auxiliary, but to maintain this level more volunteers are needed in every department. New faces, new ideas, more objectivity are vital to the continued energy of WGH Auxiliary.

Les Schnarrs

Les Schnarrs Has Male Lead In 'Mary, Mary'

The male lead of Warren Players Club's production of "Mary, Mary" will be played by Les Schnarrs, personnel director of Warren State Hospital and a veteran of several amateur theatrical groups.

As Bob McKellaway, Les is the husband of the indomitable Mary from whom the popular situation comedy draws its title. Bob and Mary are in the process of arranging their divorce and a younger more sophisticated girl who he feels will add more dimension to his life.

Comical complications are created however by Mary and an old friend of Bob who courts her and the course of events soon reverse themselves. How Les Schnarrs, as Bob, survives this chain of events may be seen this Friday and Saturday evening when the curtain goes up at Beatty Auditorium. Show time is 8:30 p.m.

Les Schnarrs brings to his role experience gained from the Allegheny College Players, the Erie Playhouse and numerous Warren Players appearances. Among the latter are: "Guys and Dolls," "George Washington Slept Here," "Visit To A Small Planet," "All My Sons," and "Sabrina Fair."

Les Schnarrs is a native of Phillipsburg and moved to Warren nine years ago from Petersburg, Virginia. He has been an active member of Warren Players for the past five years. Les and Donna Schnarrs reside at 62 Kinzua road with their two children, Lynn and Lisa.

When the Robert Bolt play, "A Man For All Seasons," debuted at London's Globe Theatre on July 1, 1960, to tremendous critical and public acclaim, it marked two auspicious occasions in the British theatre. For one, it established its author as one of the two or three outstanding playwrights working in the contemporary British theatre. It also gave its star, Paul Scofield, a role with which he has been closely identified ever since. Now, Scofield recreates this role in Fred Zinnemann's film of "A Man For All Seasons," at the Wintergarden Theatre in Jamestown in Technicolor.

And the honors continue!

"A Man For All Seasons" has won the following Academy Awards:

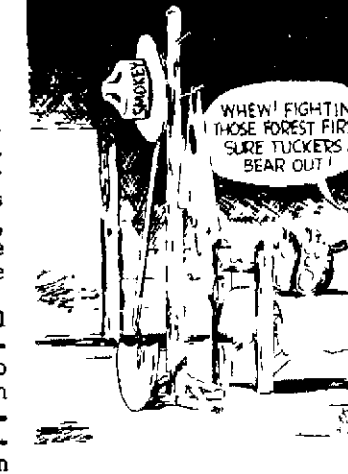

play opened on Broadway. Because of its universal theme, it has been presented all over the world, from Uruguay to Uganda, from Poland to Spain, most often under the title, "Thomas More," after its protagonist.

Robert Bolt also won an Academy Award for his "Dr. Zhivago" screenplay. "A Man For All Seasons" won Broadway's most coveted theatre awards, including five Tonys and the New York Drama Critics Circle award as Best Play.

Starring in "A Man For All Seasons," in addition to Scofield, are Wendy Hiller, Leo McKern, Robert Shaw, Orson Welles and Susannah York. Featured players include Nigel Davenport, John Hurt and Corin Redgrave.

Fred Zinnemann produced and directed from Bolt's screenplay.

Apollo Moon Series Begins Again Early Next Year

By JOHN NOBLE WILFORD
(C) N. Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Major revisions in the nation's moon program were announced yesterday, including stripping away part of the responsibility of the Apollo spacecraft manufacturer, North American Aviation Inc.

The revisions were disclosed by James E. Webb, the Space Agency Administrator. He said that renegotiations of the $2.8 billion Apollo contract, along with $75 million worth of engineering changes in the spacecraft, was expected to prepare the way for the first manned Apollo mission next March or April—more than a year after the spacecraft fire that killed three astronauts last Jan. 27.

Testifying before the Senate Space Committee, Webb said the contract changes would involve bringing in the Boeing Company to integrate and check out the spacecraft prior to launching. This had been one of North American's assignments.

In addition, another contractor will be asked to take over the job of preparing Apollo spacecraft for missions following the initial lunar landing, Webb said.

This move was intended, he explained, to enable North American to concentrate its effort on the manned lunar mission

—a goal that Webb said could still be achieved in this decade. He estimated that, barring further setbacks, the moon flight could come in late 1969.

Webb also told the senators that "other forms of contractor assistance" were being considered to help North American in the management, checkout and test procedures of the complex $23 billion project.

The Space Agency's revisions were prompted by sharp criticism contained in a report, issued last month, by a special review board investigating the Apollo accident. The review board reported finding "major deficiencies in design and engineering, manufacture and quality control."

In his testimony before the Senate Aeronautical and Space Science Committee, Webb also disclosed:

—The crew of the first Apollo earth-orbiting test flight will be headed by Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., of the Navy, a veteran of two earlier space flights. The other astronauts who were with Capt. Schirra in the backup crew for the ill-fated Apollo 1, will be Maj. Donn F. Eisele of the Air Force and Walter Cunningham, a civilian.

—Cost of the proposed changes in the spacecraft, including a

WARREN COUNTY

Two complaints were filed against Jack E. McCool, county treasurer, yesterday afternoon. Plaintiffs were John H. Stewart of Akeley, James V. Mazzu of Russell, and Roy Sherman, map supervisor in the county assessment office. The complaints charge McCool improperly attempted to redeem (get back) for himself lands that were sold to the plaintiffs at a treasurer's sale in 1964. The plaintiffs claim that McCool never had title to the lands, and so had no right to redeem them for himself. Pages One, A2.

PENNSYLVANIA

The status of state-related colleges in Pennsylvania is unique. There are only three, Penn State, Pitt and Temple. The State provides these schools with low tuitions, maintenance and special appropriations. The new chancellor at the University of Pittsburgh says this is "creative statism at its best." Page B1.

THE NATION

Two developments in Washington brought Congressional reaction. One was breaking of a four-week deadlock on the presidential campaign financing law, which would allow taxes to be used by candidates for the highest office. The other was testimony by Lawrence O'Brien, head of the postal system, that a rate increase is needed. Page One.

Mandamus Writ Asked Against Jack McCool

Two complaints in mandamus were filed Monday afternoon against Warren County treasurer Jack E. McCool by three individuals.

The complaints, filed in the prothonotary's office by Attorney Rockwell O'Sheill, were served on McCool yesterday afternoon by the sheriff's office.

A complaint in mandamus is an act of legal procedure which compels an officer to perform a duty that he is required to do. Plaintiffs in the action are Roy Sherman, map supervisor in the county assessment office and Attorney John H. Stewart named in one complaint and James V. Mazzu Jr., of Russell, in the other.

According to papers filed by the plaintiffs, the plaintiffs bought two tracts of land in Elk Twp. at a treasurer's sale Aug. 3, 1964. Sherman and Stewart were said to have bought 47 acres as co-purchasers. Mazzu was said to have bought a 30-acre tract.

The land, it is alleged, was sold under the title of unknown ownership; a period of two years was allowed under the law for any owners of the properties to redeem them. The plaintiffs say the deadline for such redemption was Aug. 3, 1966.

The complaint states that on August 2, 1966, Jack E. McCool accepted, as county treasurer, funds from himself as an individual to effect the redemption of the properties.

The plaintiffs further state they asked the defendant (McCool) to void the records pertaining to his redemption, which according to the mandamus complaint, he refused to do.

Paragraph 10 of the complaint states that "by an arbitrary exercise of authority in his official capacity as county treasurer, the said Jack E. McCool acted in favor of Jack E. McCool as an individual in said acts of accepting redemption money and marking official records as 'redeemed' to tracts of land through a mistaken view of the law or otherwise."

The court is petitioned to request the defendant to void the records pertaining to the redemption of the land.

Plaintiffs' Statement Appears on Page A-2

McCool made this statement: "I was approached only last week and threatened with the filing if I did not void redemptions of three cases instead of two. I was further told the actions on three cases would be filed Monday, to which I replied that this is very short notice, especially since the redemptions were made nine months ago, and this is the first time I had been approached on the matter."

"Doesn't it seem rather odd that I would be threatened just before election? How had does someone want the office of register and recorder?" "I will further state that I am not for sale, I cannot be coerced or bought, I am acting under legal counsel, and furthermore, if we really want to get into the county code and the statutes governing the problem at hand, we will find that no elected or selected county official or employee has any right to purchase property at tax sale."

Campaign Finance Plan Approved Again by Senate

By JOHN D. MORRIS

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The Senate broke a four-week deadlock yesterday by voting to make the 1966 presidential campaign financing law inoperative until Congress enacted legislation establishing new administrative guidelines. The vote was 93 to 4.

The Senate then passed, 93 to 1, the Administration's bill to restore tax benefits for business investment in equipment and buildings. The bill now goes to a Senate-House conference committee for reconciliation with a text approved March 16 by the House.

The Senate Finance Committee plans early hearings on legislation to establish the required guidelines and otherwise revise the campaign financing law. The committee was already under instructions, voted by the Senate on April 25, to report new legislation within six weeks.

Yesterday's Senate proceedings were marked by unusual drama that included the breaking of a tie vote by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, anxious conferences on the floor and much tension in debate.

The issue was finally resolved by the merger of amendments sponsored by Democratic Senators Mike Mansfield of Montana, the majority leader, and Albert Gore of Tennessee.

As enacted last November, the Long Law would enable taxpayers to assign $1 of their federal taxes to a presidential campaign fund, starting next year, by checking a box in their final returns. Up to $30 million could be paid from the fund to each of the major parties for 1968 presidential campaign expenses.

From the standpoint of the Long Law's proponents, the final rider has one major virtue. It maintains on the status books, at least in principle, the concept of public subsidies for political campaigns.

Even though Congress may ultimately provide for a different approach, an important breakthrough in election-law reform has been salvaged for the time being.

President Johnson and other advocates of federal campaign subsidies contend that they are greatly needed to free candidates from dependency on large contributions from private sources with special interests to promote in government.

form has been salvaged for the time being.

THE CASE IS CRACKED

Trooper Harry Jabo of the Warren barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police takes inventory on the fireworks confiscated last night by State Police and Warren Borough policemen. Eight juveniles from the Warren area, were picked up with over $200 in fireworks. Recently they have blown up mailboxes, thrown fire crackers on convertible tops and shot out street lights. Still left are eight gross of large fire crackers, 18 strings of "lady fingers," two skyrockets and two aerial bombs. The juveniles were released in the custody of their parents and will be bound over to the juvenile court. (Photo by Mahan)

Postal Department Asks Rate Increase

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The Administration told an apparently sympathetic House subcommittee yesterday that immediate postal rate increases were necessary to begin modernizing the postal system and prepare it for the mail burdens of the future.

Appearing before the postal rates subcommittee of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien asked Congress to help move his agency out of the "cable car era" by providing it with enough money to "enlist the full capacities of modern science and technology."

"Our postal system serves 6 per cent of the world population, yet it sags under the weight of half the world's mail," O'Brien declared. "Our system cannot take on 3 to 4 billion more pieces of mail each year without facing repeated threats of service breakdown."

The present annual volume of mail is about 81 billion pieces. The Postmaster General predicted that volume would top 100 billion pieces by 1970.

Can't Have Everything

SINGAPORE (AP) — The Singapore All-Girls Bagpipe Band concedes it can't have everything in a neat, attractive package. The item that wrecked the ideal of a full complement of "smart trim girls with shapely legs" is the 40-pound bass drum. The band now will settle for a heavier type who can carry and bang the drum for a full two miles on parade.

LOSE ONE AIRPLANE

Air Force Bombs Hanoi MIG Base

SAIGON — Air Force fighter bombers blew huge craters in the runway of the Hoiaac MIG airfield, 20 miles west of Hanoi, Monday putting a MIG base in North Vietnam out of operation for the first time.

Nine flights of F-105 Thunderchiefs from Thailand bombarded the airfield. The fifth time the base has been attacked since April 24th—damaging the taxiways and parking revetments as well as the runway.

"From the damage estimates available to us today the airfield is not operable at this time," a spokesman said.

One Air Force Thunderchief was shot down over North Vietnam, but the spokesman said it was not participating in the attack against the Hoiaac MIG airfield. The pilot is listed as missing. This is the 535th U.S. plane lost over the north.

Military observers in Saigon noted that closing the Hoiaac base by cutting the runway is a change of tactics representing still another increase of pressure on North Vietnam. Previously all strikes were aimed at destroying MIG aircraft while carefully avoiding heavier damage to the base.

The sources pointed out that at best the move is a gesture, perhaps a warning, since there are three other MIG bases still in operation near Hanoi and two near Haiphong.

It is believed that only nine or ten MIG fighters were actually based at Hao Lac, and all of them older models.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Hildur Johnson

Mrs. Hildur Johnson, 69, of Mayville, N.Y., a former resident of Clarendon, died at 6 p.m. Monday, May 8, 1967, at the Jamestown General Hospital after a brief illness.

Six Rail Cars Overturn in Kane Accident

KANE — Six cars of cinders were overturned in a derailment early Monday afternoon of a Baltimore & Ohio railroad freight between Kane and Marienville.

Leo Ford, chief dispatcher at Punxsutawney, said repair units were at the scene and expected to have the track opened by midnight.

He said the cinders were owned by the railroad and estimated the damage at $2,500. Bulldozers were summoned from Bradford and Knox to remove the cinders.

The derailment, cause of which is unknown, occurred about nine miles south of Kane. The freight was southbound at the time of the accident which occurred near Nansen.

The crew of the train, comprised Harry McGowan of Kane, engineer; Paul Neely of Butler, conductor; Mike Ruffner and Peter Parise, both of Punxsutawney, brakemen.

Teachers Receive NDEA Benefit In Seven Schools

Some teachers repaying National Defense Student Loans will benefit from a recent federal decision.

The entire amount of such a loan can be repaid at 15 per cent a year by teachers at Warren Area High School, Youngsville High School, Tidoute, Bear Lake Elementary School, Lottsville Elementary School, Plank Road Elementary School, and Washington Elementary School.

The 15 per cent rate is effective for the current school year as well as for future years.

Previously, a maximum of half of a National Defense Loan (plus interest) could be repaid at 10 per cent a year by a full-time teacher.

Bradford Warns Plaintiffs Disclaim Charge of Politics

BRADFORD—Residents of the city have been reminded that use of skateboards is outlawed on municipal streets and sidewalks.

City manager Milton E. Lopus said he had received several complaints of revival of the fad which had been popular with youngsters for several years.

He has asked Police Chief Robert Zimmerman to seek strict enforcement of an ordinance adopted about a year ago forbidding such activity within the city limits.

The action by City Council followed a non-traffic accident in which a Bradford youth was fatally injured when he fell from a skateboard while traveling down a grade and struck curbing.

Erie Man Killed
ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Terrence Reid, 25, of Erie, was killed early yesterday when his car collided head-on with a car driven by Kenneth Young, 51, also of Erie. Young was listed in fair condition at Erie Osteopathic Hospital.

Rockwell O'Sheill of Blackman & O'Sheill, attorneys for three men who have filed two complaints against county treasurer Jack E. McCool, last night replied to a statement McCool made yesterday.

O'Sheill said that when he and his associate Sidney Blackman met with McCool last week, "no threats were made."

"We said that if the situation were not remedied as far as redemptions were concerned, we would have no choice but to give mandamus. This was not a threat," said O'Sheill.

He spoke at a meeting with the press, with Blackman, and the three plaintiffs present.

"No one involved has attempted to either buy or sell Jack McCool, and as a matter of fact, we don't know what it is he would have wanted to buy or sell," said O'Sheill, adding, "We're interested in one thing: obtaining justice for a person at the treasury office tax sale. We are not interested in what McCool may have to buy or sell."

WASHINGTON—The Defense Department thinks X-rays will stop incoming ballistic missiles by destroying their warheads. A Pentagon official said yesterday the U.S. is developing a system that will destroy enemy missiles at high altitudes. It does away with the concept of an anti-missile missile, which had been compared to trying to hit one bullet with another.

LONDON—Britain has been urged to move closer to the European view on issues that now divide the Common Market and the United States. Making the suggestion was Edward Heath, leader of the Conservative Party, who said England should take the side of Europe in the Kennedy round of negotiations now going on. Heath said Britain's support of the U.S. must change if Britain intends to enter the Common Market.

WASHINGTON—The Secretary of Labor, Willard Wirtz, has rejected the idea that the Administration's plan to stop the railroad shop-craft dispute be made permanent as a solution to the problem. He said the Administration plan would leave open the threat of a railroad strike that the nation cannot afford.

PHILADELPHIA—There was a partial eclipse of the sun yesterday, but most Pennsylvanians didn't know the difference. Cloudy weather obscured the hour-long phenomenon, which began at 9:18 a.m. In Alaska, observers saw only 28 per cent of the sun during the eclipse, which occurred when the moon moved between the earth and the sun.

TOKYO—Reports from Communist China indicate bloody battles are being waged in the southwestern part of that country between supporters of Mao Tse-tung and his opponents, who are unknown. The highest-ranking Communist in the sector has been stripped of his powers as commander of the military district and first secretary of the bureau because he was accused of siding with Liu Shao-chi, the aging president of Red China.

WEST CHESTER, Pa.—Governor Raymond Shafer zeroed in on the minor judiciary yesterday in his campaign to gain approval for constitutional reform. He called for voter endorsement of all eight amendments and the constitutional convention question next Tuesday and said the minor judiciary system itself needs changing, in spite of the fact that some members of it are doing a good job. The system, he said, is inherently weak.

PHILADELPHIA—The 50 high-speed railroad passenger cars for service between New York and Washington over Pennsylvania Railroad tracks will be in operation by fall of this year, the Budd Co., makers of the cars, said yesterday. The electric cars will be capable of speeds up to 160 miles per hour.

Guards prevented antiwar demonstrators from entering a top-security area of the Pentagon yesterday. About 50 people were involved in the protest. Their goal was to reach the room occupied by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower continued to show improvement but will remain in Walter Reed Army hospital for at least the remainder of the week. He is suffering from acute gastroenteritis.

New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison, who delved behind the scene of the Kennedy assassination, has begun an investigation of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Central Intelligence Agency, charging that both of them are trying to withhold evidence about the assassination.

Senate Republican leaders have apparently succeeded in shelving a controversial policy bent on a strong GOP dissent on Vietnam in the 1968 elections. Senator Everett Dirksen said that the report wasn't discussed at the Republican Policy Committee's weekly luncheon meeting.

A concert pianist, Felipa Schuyler, and a child were killed in the crash of a U.S. Army helicopter just north of Da Nang last night. The helicopter was carrying Vietnamese school children. Seven children and four crewmembers were rescued by other helicopters.

Republicans Agree With Democrats

Republican and Democratic parties in Warren County agree on at least one thing—constitutional reform for Pennsylvania.

GOP county chairman Gurney R. Ball and Democratic county chairman William L. Martin joined in signing a resolution Monday urging support of constitutional reform.

This is the text of the resolution:

"Now therefore be it resolved that the county chairmen of the Republican and Democratic parties of Warren County, Warren, Pennsylvania, support and urge its members and all other citizens of Pennsylvania to cast nine yes votes on May 16, 1967, for those constitutional questions, including:

Resolutions 1—A through 7—A, inclusive, which are broad amendments to all the provisions in the Constitution known as The Declaration of Rights, and the Articles on the Legislature, Elections, Future Amendments, and Railroads and Canals;

Resolution 8—A, which provides for funding a $500-million Conservative Program for the entire state, including control of water pollution, state financial aid to communities for sewage treatment plant construction, development of Project 70 recreation areas, reductions in acid drainage from mines, and restoration of strip mined areas;

Act No. 2, calling for a limited constitutional convention to propose changes for voter approval in April 1968, to the provisions in the Constitution dealing with Taxation and State Finance, Local Government, Judiciary and Legislative Apportionment, but prohibiting said convention from any consideration of a graduated income tax or from proposing any change in the present uniform tax provision or the motor license fund provision of the present Constitution.

However, no concrete reasons to the delay in filing of the complaints until yesterday—over nine months after the transaction—were given.

People in the News

CHATTANOOGA—James R. Hoffa, serving a federal sentence for jury-tampering, failed yesterday in his bid for freedom on new evidence when his attorneys were unable to come up with any in District Court. The session, expected to last three days or more, was 45 minutes long. Hoffa is to be returned to prison at Lewisburg, Pa., to serve out his eight-year sentence.

BELLEfonte, Pa.—Robert E. Vener, 20, of Greenville, was placed on probation for a year and handed a suspended sentence when he pleaded guilty to malicious mischief yesterday. He was charged with firing a rifle at a girls dormitory at State College last month. He was suspended from Penn State for a year.

NEW YORK—Governor Raymond Shafer of Pennsylvania yesterday repeated his intent to seek a "favorite son" nomination in the GOP presidential campaign to help keep the party united in his state. He said he would not endorse a candidate this early.

PITTSBURGH—Bob Friend, a former pitcher for the Pirates, and Vinnie Smith, once an umpire in the National League, met again yesterday on opposite sides of the fence. This time they are candidates for controller of Allegheny County. Friend is a Republican, Smith a Democrat.

new quick-release hatch and use of fewer flammable materials, can be absorbed in the present budget and in the requested $5.1 billion budget for the fiscal year beginning next July.

—The Space Agency is faced with a number of other serious problems with Apollo contractors. But Webb refused to discuss them in a public hearing, saying that he would tell the senators in a closed-door session if they wished.

—North American was not the first choice of a Space Agency evaluation review board at the time the Apollo bids were received in 1961. Webb and his top advisors overruled the board's recommendation—the Martin-Marietta Corporation—to award the contract to North American on the basis of the company's greater experience, larger organization and lower bid.

Mandamus

The alleged copy of quitclaim deeds seen last night concerned three tracts of land. One of the tracts is not involved in the current complaint.

The alleged copy transferred the tracts' ownership, if such ownership existed, from A.J. Knupp or the Montana Knupp estate to Jack McCool, doing business as Lane Development Co., for a consideration of $250.

The alleged deeds were recorded Aug. 2, 1966, the day before the treasurer's sale of the land.

The alleged deeds exempt all land assessed to A.J. Knupp or the Montana Knupp estate for 1965.

The reason why the question of who had title to the lands in 1962 is important is this:

The land was sold at a treasurer's sale in 1964 because 1962 taxes had not been paid.

McCool

Sherman, a plaintiff, is employed by the county as a map supervisor in the county assessment office.

McCool said he would not make any statement on what course he will pursue legally. He did say there was no question of who had legal title to the properties in question. They belong, he said, to the person who redeemed them. McCool said he redeemed them.

Warren General Hospital

Your Hospital — City of Care

Your Hospital is a business office — but much more than a business office. The hospital, similar to other business offices, handles accounts receivable, accounts payable, credit and collections, etc. But, unlike most business offices, the hospital renders service (sells its product), before information is available as to who is going to pay. The patient many times is discharged before approval or rejection of insurance coverage is received. Unlike the sale of a product, the service rendered by the hospital cannot be repossessed or measured. Your hospital's annual operating budget is in excess of $2,000,000.

Former Warren Man Is Killed

Robert Cannon, 34, a former Warren resident, was one of two high school teachers fatally injured in a head-on pickup truck-automobile crash on Route 28 in Summerville at 3:45 p.m. Monday.

Cannon, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cannon of 111 West st., died at 7 p.m. Monday in Brookville Hospital, Brookville.

The other teacher, Miss Helen Mitchell, 41, was killed instantly.

The accident was still under investigation last night by Punxsutawney state police.

Cannon and Miss Mitchell, both of Brookville, were on their way home from Redbank Valley High School, where they taught. Cannon was driving. The driver of the pickup truck, John Shick, 58, of Mayport, was admitted to Brookville Hospital with a broken leg, a fractured nose and multiple lacerations.

State police said Monday that there were no skid marks, and that Shick's truck was left of center on the highway. No further details were available yesterday, except that police were looking for two possible eyewitnesses, one in DuBois.

Cannon was born in Warren Dec. 30, 1932, and attended Warren public schools.

A graduate of Clarion State Teachers' College, he recently received a master's degree from Indiana State University. He served in the U.S. Army and taught in New Bethlehem schools for nine years.

On Aug. 25, 1962, he married Barbara Hummel of Summerville, who is now employed as a nurse at Brookville Hospital.

Other survivors are his parents; a sister, Mrs. Jean Adamson of Frederick, Md.; a brother, Thomas Cannon of Oxon Hill, Md.; five nieces and

Some really fine dogs are now desperately in need of homes, according to the heads of the Warren County Humane Society. If your family is eager for a pet, please read over this list of dogs which are homeless, and write to the Humane Society, Box 605, Warren. Please send your name, address, phone number, and if you have children, their ages.

The Humane Society wants to know what you want: male or female, large or small, puppy or grown dog.

One family of 11 hound-collie puppies, just 8 weeks old needs homes. Your choice, male or female.

A great dog is a fawn-colored, one-year-old Boxer, that's very good with children.

Next is a lovely dog that has not only been spayed, but has had shots. This is a 4-month-old taffy-colored, medium size dog, that's so gentle.

To see is to love a male, black-and-white part cocker spaniel, six months old.

A terrific terrier is a male, gray, brown and white, now three months old.

Any family would love a short-haired brown female puppy, just three months old.

For real doggy beauty, ask to see the two-year-old Spitz-collie female.

Another beauty, a honey-colored spaniel, male, that's 6 months old.

A brown-and-white Hound is a male and a year old.

Two puppies that look like French poodles, and are almost all poodle, are now 8 weeks old. Choose a male or a female.

Some good folks will adore a year-old, male part bird-dog and collie.

What a collie? Here's a three-year-old that's good with children.

Not quite a year old is a charming female, Shepherd-beagle.

This time, please write to Humane Society, Box 605, Warren.

Young GOP Hear County Candidates

A Young Republican forum held last night to introduce candidates for county offices seeking nomination at next Tuesday's primary election drew only a small crowd despite ample advance notice.

The young GOP group, however, anticipates greater participation following a formal organization meeting scheduled for May 24 in the Northwest Savings and Loan Co. Men and women between the ages of 21 and 40 are eligible and urged to join.

All 11 Republican candidates for county commissioner stated their views on two pertinent questions: "What is to be done to attract new industry?" and "What are the most pressing problems to be solved in Warren County during the next four years?"

William F. Clinger Jr., acting as moderator, reversed the field in introductions used at an April "Meet the Candidates" night sponsored by the county Republican Women's Council. At the previous get-together, candidates were introduced alphabetically starting with A.

W. Robert Walsh was first to take the stand. He said the two questions posed were synonymous. Transportation, housing, urban renewal, recreation all give industry reason to locate here. Walsh pointed to the county's natural resources and said "manpower is the key." Emphasis was placed on zoning and planning and the candidate said Warren County should not be another Chautauqua or Celoron.

Walsh expressed his disappointment in seeing so few young people on hand since new blood and new ideas, in his opinion, are important in picking the two important officials (county commissioners) who must try to look to the future and have as much vision as possible.

Tony Tomassoni was next in line and he mentioned the need for unity, cooperation, mutual respect and trust in each other in the commissioner's office as well as faith. Tomassoni declared too many problems had gone too long without solution. He mentioned senior citizens, needy persons, public accommodations, restaurants and the need for dedicated men in the office.

John Teconchuk talked of needed campsites for tourists and advised he had talked to 250 people last month who had comments both encouraging and discouraging in regard to Warren County. Teconchuk said there were no places along Brokenstraw Creek for fishermen and cited lack of parking spaces and accommodations. He said he had plans to provide these essentials himself and would, in an advertisement this week, outlining what he intends to do.

Dr. David Rice said he had looked at the questions and decided, like Walsh, they were inter-related. He stated his belief was the most pressing problem was the need for "a diplomatic county government."

"If things run smoothly," Rice said, "problems will be taken care of more quickly."

Rice urged commissioners not to be afraid to make statements backing up their stand; to sit down, listen to the other side; give a little and take a little. He stated that roads here should have been built long ago and that while in Harrisburg a month ago, he was told the reason why interest had not been taken as to Warren County was because movers in the county "can't get along with themselves."

Ellis Martin added an "amen" to Dr. Rice's comments, adding the latter had taken half of his speech. Martin dwelled on taxation as discouraging new industry in the county. He termed it "killing" but noted the state and federal governments were putting the county over a barrel, "telling us what to do."

Martin went on record as opposed to No. 9 on the constitutional amendments (to be voted on May 16) claiming the aim was to do away with local government.

Incumbent Blain Mead stated critical problems in the future will be settled for good or bad May 16. He said that only in county government can the taxation line be held. Mead compared young people in the throes of buying homes to older people with fixed incomes finding it impossible to cut corners. He said the one real way to save money was not to spend it.

He urged housing for the elderly and the need for expert help in providing living accommodations for the aged.

James Marshall urged the Young Republicans to keep active and vote "yes" on all nine amendments, adding he had changed his mind as to No. 9 since Commonwealth secretary Craig Truax's visit here last Friday.

Marshall stated outlying areas in the county suffer most — industrially, socially and economically. He hoped the next county commissioners would get behind the Economic Opportunity Council and that every effort be made to assist the elderly in feeling independent.

Incumbent D. H. Lay emphasized that citizens be kept aware and the need for commissioners to be consistent, far-sighted, sure-thinking and strong. He noted the many critical problems but said solutions won't come about by wishing but by "working together to accomplish what must be done."

Major Myron Kirberger discussed the most important effort should be for "our roads," adding that the county doesn't seem to be getting anywhere. He mentioned lack of parking facilities, camping areas, restaurants and said that he felt the county couldn't wait until 1975 or "we'll be swamped."

Kirberger quoted statistics to the effect that the county population had increased 3.2 per cent between 1960 and 1965 while buying income had jumped 54 per cent or $112 million. The county, he said, was not poor but "poor within," and advocated the need for federal and state aid in "big bunches" where required.

Ralph Brasington said Kirberger had taken a leaf out of his book but named roads as the most critical of the county needs in the next four years if farms, businesses and industries are to grow and expand.

Brasington added that whether a successful candidate or not, he would continue his efforts for better highways in the county. James Blomquist urged the county to change its image, noting that signs now reading 15,000 friendly people should be altered to read 50,000 friendly people to embrace the entire area.

Blomquist pointed to the lack of new homes for young executives coming to Warren and the county's many attractions. He stressed the need for a civic center large enough to accommodate several thousands attending conventions, civic promotions or trade fairs. He said "we're sitting on a gold mine that should be developed—not tomorrow, but now."

Also introduced were unopposed candidates, Sheriff D. E. Allen Jr., and Prothonotary Warren Lowe; opposition candidates, register and recorder, incumbent William E. Rice and Jack McCool; Florence Hoffman and Frederick Berry, county treasurer.

Here to encourage Young Republicans were state director Mrs. Jane Yeany and district administrator Gary Carrier, Tom Africa, interim chairman of Young Republicans, urged that everyone vote.

Coffee and doughnuts were served by Mrs. Rose Bonavita, president of Warren County Council of Republican Women assisted by Mrs. D. E. Allen Jr.

Jamestown Plans New Parking Ramp

JAMESTOWN — A proposal to construct a new parking ramp at the corner of Third and Washington streets in downtown Jamestown was announced yesterday by councilman Robert E. Godfrey.

Councilman Godfrey appeared at a meeting of the city planning commission and urged that the city abandon plans to construct a 350-car ramp at the present city-owned parking lot on Cherry street.

Jamestown needs three ramps and not four," He pointed out that the area near Third and Washington street has what he called "tremendous business potential" and would be much more valuable to downtown business districts.

The Fifth Ward councilman also indicated that the site of the former post office, now a parking lot operated by National Garages, Inc. also would be cheaper to build on.

Plans were announced last month by Civic Ramp Associates, which operates the present ramp at Second and Main streets, for a $690,000 ramp on the Cherry street location to handle the 350 cars.

The site was chosen after consultation with city planning commission.

Planning commission chairman Hugh Carr told councilman Godfrey that his proposal would receive consideration. Carr added that, initially he also favored the Third and Washington street location, but that subsequent studies caused him to change his mind in favor of the Cherry street location.

A Menace To A Promise!

This was the theme of a recent editorial in an area newspaper that cited Olean's present sewage situation as a peril to the promise of the Allegheny Reservoir. A potential threat to the full recreational use of the 12,000-plus acres of water that has formed behind the Kinzua Dam.

This paper's concern stems, it seems, from the fact that Olean, which lost its treatment plant in an explosion some weeks ago, is presently pumping 6-million gallons of raw sewage into the Allegheny River each day. It questions that even the tremendous capacity of the Allegheny Reservoir can absorb this quantity of raw sewage over the two or three year period that will be required to replace the Olean plant.

There is no denying the fact that the Olean situation does pose a serious problem, as the editorial suggests. However, the statement, "The result, of course, will be a high bacteria count, beaches closed, fish-kills, the usual results of polluted water. That will kill the reservoir before it ever gets started, and it will mean hundreds of millions of dollars down the drain (literally)," is a little on the strong side, and implies that if such conditions should develop Olean alone would be responsible.

This is an unfair conclusion.

Only last year, Secretary of Forest and Waters Maurice Goddard said that seventeen upstream communities were discharging untreated sewage into the Allegheny River above the Kinzua Dam.

Further than this, biologists aren't in full agreement that treated sewage (primary) lessens to any great extent the objectionable features of polluted water. They point out that the nutrients of the-sewage are still passed off into the adjacent stream. These nutrients then contribute to the breakdown of organic material and promote bacterial growth that robs water of its oxygen.

Even before the Olean disaster, these biologists had determined that, as a result of bacterial action, no oxygen could be found in the waters of the Allegheny Reservoir below the thermocline, or below a depth of 26 feet. For this reason, they have advised against stocking lake trout in the impoundment.

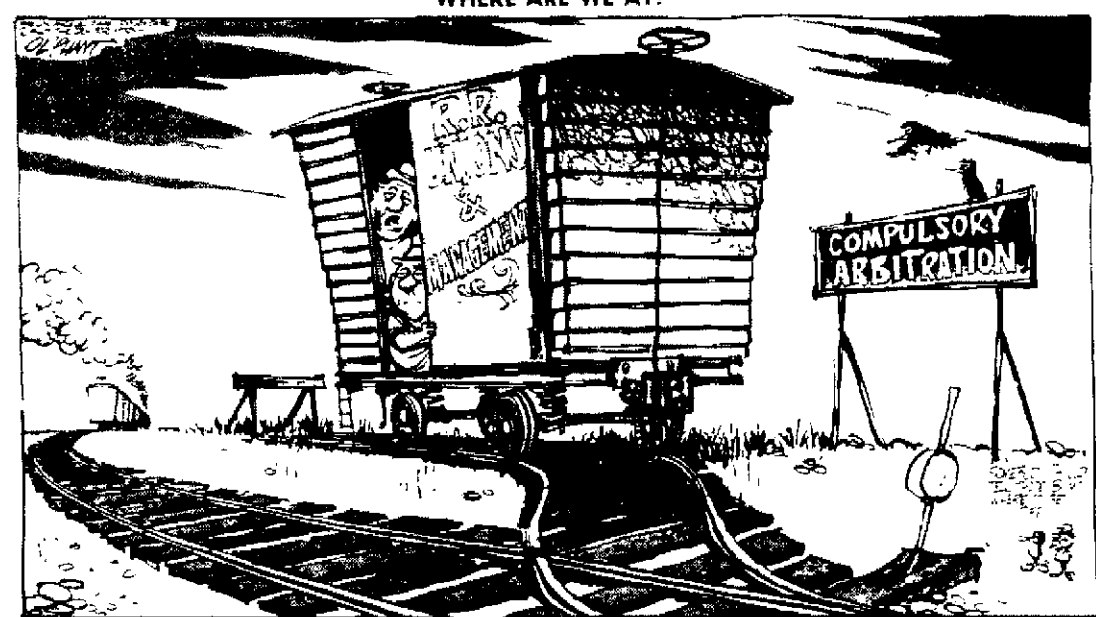

Therefore, if, at some time in the future, beaches must be closed and fishkills do result it would be unfair to lay the entire blame on the City of Olean. Factors that would contribute to a high bacterial count and lack of oxygen have existed in the Allegheny River for a long time.

Luckily, though, they have never reached serious proportions. The waters of the Old Allegheny are still "clean" under present standards, and produce some of the finest game fishing in the nation.

We are certain that Olean will do its utmost to replace the lost facilities as early as possible. We are just as certain that Secretary Goddard is already pressuring officials in New York State to give them a helping hand in the matter.

So only time will tell. The determining factor will be the river's ability to cleanse itself --- an ability it has demonstrated through greater threats of sewage pollution than presently exists.

Olean's misfortune may have been a disaster, but it's far from a catastrophe. At least in the immediate future.

Dodd Case Rocks Connecticut

WASHINGTON — The preliminary Dodd debate has started a chain of recrimination, complication and quandary in Connecticut. It has also caused a split in Dodd's own camp.

The split is between his attorneys and his staff. The attorneys have persuaded Sen. Dodd to fight the charges against him until his last breath. Most of his staffers, however, have argued that he should be careful not to antagonize the Senate. By eating humble pie, he might win enough sympathy, they plead, to get the censure motion reduced to a simple rebuke.

The recrimination is between Dodd's friend Arthur Barbieri of New Haven, who wants to control the Democratic party in Connecticut, and Democratic National Chairman John Bailey, whom Barbieri doesn't like. Barbieri is in a hurry to become Bailey's successor and doesn't care much what happens to the party. This is why he tried to buttonhole unwilling Democrats for a new $100 a plate dinner for Dodd, even though it was splitting the Democrats wide open. He finally had to call it off.

The complication is on the part of Connecticut Republicans who hear that a few Old Guard Republicans in the Senate are going to stage a drive to rescue Dodd. This is the last thing Connecticut Republicans want. With a united Republican front censuring Dodd, they figure they can defeat him the next time up.

The quandary is on the part of Sen. Abe Ribicoff, the other Connecticut Senator, who has changed his mind four times as to how he will or won't vote when his colleague Dodd comes up for censure.

Abe is known to friends as a charming and skillful, if vacillating, individual. But he has never vacillated quite so much in the past as now.

Abe was elected governor of Connecticut, the first Jew ever to hold that position. Through a deal with Dodd, Abe got the Catholic vote and in return, Ribicoff sided with Dodd against Chester Bowles, former governor of Connecticut and wartime Price Administrator; also

He looks like a winded line-man on a losing team. The hair is brown, the eyes are blue, the lips are slightly apart as though someone was on his instep. When he gets onstage, he works harder, funnier and longer than any comedian I know. In Las Vegas, he has lasted since 1954, so long that, when he dies, the Riviera is going to build a statue of Shecky made of silver dollars, it will, of course, be electrified.

Stardom implies fame. Shecky Greene is a star and has the respect of the top pros, but the rest of the country says: "Shecky who?" He has cast his laughter within the parochial confines of Las Vegas, a town where the desert looks like broadloom and the cactus looks like people. Shecky's sexy satire of Madame Butterfly and her American lover ranks close to the comic classics.

His background is average: Shmoyale Greenfield was born on 15th Street in Chicago 41 years ago. His father was a wholesale shoe salesman. His mother, Bessie, sold hosiery and bags. His older brothers, Paul and Marvin, became salesmen. Shecky joined the Navy. He served aboard the carrier Bon Homme Richard in World War II.

In battle, his job was to man the soda fountain. "Everybody else was shooting Japs, I was below yelling: 'You want chocolate and sprinkles too?'" There was a U.S. Marine aboard named Jonathan Winters. He and Shecky put on shows between battles. Both men decided that they were natural comedians, or else the enlisted men were hysterical.

After the war, Greene worked everywhere. He bounced from Chicago to New Orleans to New York to Miami to Peewaukee Lake, Wisconsin. One time, he found himself in a gambling casino in Reno. He fell in love with the dealer. She was Jeri Drury, part Cherokee Indian. She had straight black hair and a high-noon look. "Before you marry an Indian girl," Shecky says, "you must give her father two fast horses. So I gave Kelson in the seventh and Carry Back in the eighth."

He told her how funny he was, but she seldom laughed. They have two daughters: Doris, 7, and Allison, 5. After the wedding, Shecky bought his bride two French poodles. Whenever he came home from an engagement, he looked at the floor and demanded to know who the third plate was for.

His real love is gambling. When he started an engagement at the Last Frontier in Vegas, they held him over for 12 weeks because they couldn't afford to let him go. Shecky earns $14,000 a week, and a man has to be intelligent to find ways of losing all of it.

Shecky feels no kinship, no sympathy. He sweats twice as much to make them laugh. In the off-season, he will play anywhere near a race track. He says he prefers a sharp game of handball to horses, but nobody believes him. Shickey, Shakey, Shikey has got his gambling under control. Recently, at Gulfstream, he said: "I won't bet more than $500 a day."

That's real control. He was working the Fontainebleau with Sinatra. "I'm not in awe of him," he said. "I walk into his dressing room any old time. Usually he's not there, so I just kiss his rings and I'm not even Catholic."

When he drinks, Shecky drinks scotch. He never drinks too much unless he's nervous. When this happens, instead of biting his nails, he tears up mutual tickets. Then he drinks more than he should, puts on a silly grin, unfocuses his eyes, unscrews his mind and draws a fat blank. It doesn't happen often, but when it does, he awakens in a hotel room full of splinters. Millions of them. If they could be glued together, they would take the form of sofas, chairs, tables and television sets.

"I haven't got a temper," Shecky says. "I'm just stubborn." Both statements are untrue. His is a fine and lonely talent. No man can take the horses home with him. He phoned little Allison, just to hear a voice that might offer love and ask little in return. "Where are you, Daddy?" she said. "I'm in Miami, honey," he whispered. He could hear the child speak to her mother. "He says he's in his ami!"

The Crisis in Geneva

(C) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — The United States and Europe have gone through four great crises since the last World War and are faced with a fifth-threatening the fabulously successful economic system of the post-war era.

The first was the Greek-Turkish crisis which was met by the intervention of the United States and the Truman Doctrine. The second was the economic crisis of the Forties, which was relieved by the Marshall Plan. The third was the European security crisis, and the fourth the German crisis, both overcome by the formation and cooperative action of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

But the fifth is different. It has not been caused by war or the threat of war, but by economic success, not by fear, but the absence of fear, and by a growing feeling on both sides of the Atlantic that the United States and the Common Market countries can now afford to compete rather than cooperate with one another.

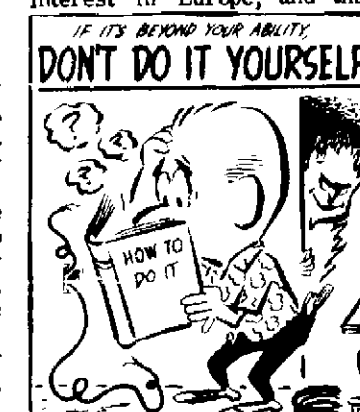

The fact that the other four crises were surmounted by a spirit of unity, cooperation, and sacrifice in the United States and Western Europe does not seem to have been enough to keep the trade negotiations at Geneva from breaking down.

The technicians in the so-called Kennedy Round of negotiations have not been able to break the stalemate and now have five days in which to get new instructions, which can come only from the heads of the principal governments concerned.

What is at issue in Geneva and also in this autumn's world monetary conference at Rio De Janeiro is nothing less than whether the world wide trading and monetary systems are to be maintained or broken up into competing blocs.

Eugene Rostow, the U.S. under-Secretary of State for political affairs has defined the crisis in these terms: "If we fail in Geneva — or if after four years' work we achieve only a small and uneven reduction in trade barriers — restrictionism will once again become epidemic. In one sense, the Kennedy round is the last stage in the process of undoing the damage to the world economy caused by the restrictive policies most of us adopted in response to the great Depression of the Thirties. It would be a costly setback if these efforts failed."

It is significant that officials here now speak publicly about the strong "yearnings for isolation" on both sides of the Atlantic. In Europe it is charged that the United States, preoccupied with Vietnam, has lost interest in Europe, and that

Washington is so eager for an accommodation with Moscow that it is ready to make deals at the expense of the expense of the European allies.

It is no longer uncommon in the Congress and even in the Treasury Department to hear the Common Market described not only as a commercial competitor but even as if it were an "enemy" of the United States. And these cries are combined with popular complaints that the United States is "overcommitted" militarily and economically, and needs to cut back and even to "disengage" from many of the old ties in Europe and Asia.

In the last 13 years, the commerce of the industrialized countries of the free world has almost tripled, but it is highly unlikely that this rate of growth can be sustained without further substantial reduction in tariffs and large increases in reserves of internationally acceptable assets.

The disputes at Geneva over tariffs on chemicals and regulation of trade in grains, however, is threatening to block a 30 per cent reduction on billions of dollars worth of annual trade, and it will be interesting to see how the political leaders respond to the problem.

It will be particularly interesting to see what President Johnson does about it. He has been adamant in defense of the principle that security in the world is indivisible, that the United States must oppose military aggression, even if others falter, in order to avoid chaos and a warring world.

For this principle he has authorized great sacrifices and taken great risks, and now in another field, he is confronted with a similar problem. After all that has been said here about preserving a worldwide trading and monetary system, he can scarcely let it break up into competing blocs, no matter how embarrassing it might be politically to preserve it.

Food Price Pinch

To millions of families from coast to coast, the pocketbook pinch from food costs feels worse than ever. Yet, as of the latest reporting date in March, the overall cost of the food we eat at home was down 1 per cent from a year ago; the cost of meats, poultry and fish was down almost 5 per cent; the cost of fruits and vegetables was down close to 2 per cent.

When, then, the "feeling" of an ever-tightening pinch?

One answer surely is the added millions of food-devouring teenagers in our homes. Another, which I've repeatedly stressed is our ever-mounting buying of more expensive convenience foods.

And a third fundamental reason is the changing pattern of our eating and therefore of the types of food we buy.

We are now eating more meat than ever before in our history. Meat is the costliest item in our family food budgets and costly beef is among the most rapidly growing items on our menus. If you're average, you now consume 103 pounds of beef a year, 57 per cent more than the average per capita consumption in 1947-49.

We are now also on the greatest weight-watching, anti-cholesterol binge of all times. Because of this we are shunning many inexpensive, satisfying but fattening foods and embracing in their place increasing totals of expensive but non-fattening foods. Way down are our purchases of flour, sweet potatoes, lard, pork and milk. Way up are our purchases of canned and frozen fruits and juices, canned and frozen vegetables.

The amount of food a typical U.S. family buys is larger than ever before. The amount of expensive foods in the typical family marketbasket is larger than ever before. These changes alone explain why so many of us feel a mounting food price pinch, even when prices are steady or are actually moving in our favor.

But no matter how the rising dollar totals at the supermarket checkout counter hit your pocketbook, the fact is that your family earnings have risen more than food prices in recent decades and as a result this key item now absorbs only 18.1 per cent of the average family's spending dollar, an all-time low proportion.

The fact also is that it takes fewer hours of work to pay for major foods than ever before. The following table shows just how much a single hour of factory labor will buy of key foods today, against 1949.

One hour of work bought of	In 1949	In March 1967
White bread	9.8 lbs.	12.3 lbs.
Round steak	1.6 lbs.	2.6 lbs.
Pork chops	1.9 lbs.	2.9 lbs.
Sliced bacon	2.1 lbs.	3.4 lbs.
Butter	1.9 lbs.	3.3 lbs.
Milk (del.)	6.5 qts.	9.8 qts.
Eggs	2.0 doz	5.3 doz
Oranges	2.7 doz	4.0 doz
Margarine	4.5 lbs.	9.6 lbs.
Cheese	2.4 lbs.	3.2 lbs.
Potatoes	25.1 lbs.	36.7 lbs.

Not only is the middle-upper income family eating more and better foods, the poor American is sharing in this vitally important trend, too. Such programs as free or low-cost school lunches and breakfasts have been upgrading the eating habits of tens of millions of children the nation over. A recent Detroit study of families in the Federal-State-local Food Stamp Program disclosed that the families are now buying 37 per cent more meat than before the program began, 32 per cent more poultry, 67 per cent more fresh fruit and 80 per cent more fluid milk.

By every acceptable yardstick, food has been a shrinking item in the average U.S. family's budget. Your "squeeze" is a result of what you buy, how you buy and for whom and how many you buy.

Threat To Our Needs

Pennsylvania News Service (ED NOTE: Former Governor Scranton and former Governor Leader have been serving as co-chairmen of the "Committee for 9 Yes Votes" plumping for voter approval of the constitutional convention issue which will be on next week's ballots. At the request of syndicated columnist Mason Denison, Mr. Scranton here reduces to writing his findings across the state the past few weeks.)

By WILLIAM W. SCRANTON HARRISBURG — Campaigning through the state in the past two weeks for voter approval of the nine Constitutional questions which will appear on the May 16 ballot, I have found four misconceptions about the issue which are very widespread.

These four items, coupled with voter apathy in many places, are a serious threat to one of Pennsylvania's greatest needs — a modern Constitution.

The first misconception is that many voters seem to feel that they must choose between the eight Constitutional amendments on the ballot and the ninth question, which asks whether a limited Constitutional convention should be called.

This is not true. The amendments and the limited convention do not form an either/or proposition. Rather, the convention—which is limited to four areas of discussion—takes up where the amendments leave off. The complete package would give Pennsylvania the modern Constitution she needs to compete with other states.

Frankly, the reason the four convention subjects—which are the administration of justice, local government, state fiscal policy and legislative apportionment—do not appear on the ballot as amendments is because political pressures on members of the legislature prevented them from being voted on by the legislature as amendments.

Many of my friends in the House and Senate, although they recognize the need to modernize Pennsylvania in these four areas, told me quite openly that they didn't want to alienate the special interests who oppose reform by voting on these amendments in Harrisburg.

The second great roadblock to reform is the old fear that a convention might lead to a graduated income tax in Pennsylvania.

This is what led to the failure of the convention question in 1963. But what many people do not realize is that this is no issue this year. The question on the ballot specifically forbids the convention from changing the Constitution's uniformity clause, which the courts have held bars a graduated tax in our state.

Opponents of the convention have, unfortunately, continued to use the income tax scare as an argument, and I have found that many people are believing it.

The fear has also been raised in many quarters that the convention might abolish local government. Once again, this is not a real argument, but one that reform opponents have manufactured for their own purposes. The point of Constitutional reform is to strengthen, not weaken, local government.

There is a great lack of understanding about how the convention would work and what would happen after it made its recommendations.

People have told me that they oppose a convention because they feel nothing should become part of the Constitution unless it is specifically voted upon by the people.

The law specifically states that the work of the convention must be submitted to the voters on an article-by-article basis, so it is clear that any suggested amendment that the people do not favor would be soundly defeated.

The real danger of these misconceptions is that they threaten to block modernization of our state Constitution at a time when we desperately need it.

Other states — particularly those which are our strongest competitors for new industries and jobs — are at work right now modernizing their basic laws. If we fail to do likewise I can tell you that many of the most important industries will no longer be very interested in locating in Pennsylvania. Needless to say, this means that Pennsylvania's old-fashioned Constitution would damage our state and our people for many, many years to come.

Vote 'Yes' May 16

(Questions and answers on state Constitutional Reform Questions as prepared by the League of Women Voters.)

1. "The nine questions on my ballot May 16 will be located above the candidates' names?"
"Yes, and we urge you to pull all nine levers down for a 'Yes' vote on each one. Joining in this endorsement are the Warren Chamber of Commerce, the Warren Jaycees, the Warren County Central Labor Council, the Warren County Bar Association, the League of Women Voters of Warren Area, and Warren County Development Association."
2. "Please explain the ninth question on the ballot."
"This one asks for approval by the voters to call for a constitutional convention. Nearly everyone agrees that our 1874 constitution needs revision. There are two ways to revise it: the amendment method and by convention. Our constitution has had over 70 amendments so far, a slow, tortuous and expensive way to bring improvements. Each amendment must be advertised twice, in each county in the state, last year this cost $342,000. The money is lost if the voters reject it. Time goes by, since two different legislatures two years apart must approve placing the measure on the ballot.
"Meanwhile, more money is lost — 15 million dollars a year — in the interest costs of financing authorities instead of government-backed financing.
"Your ninth question on the ballot next Tuesday, if approved state wide, will permit you to elect delegates next November from our state senatorial district. Two persons would be nominated this fall by the county committee of each political party. The three with the highest number of votes would be elected, from each of the 50 districts.
"The convention sessions will be open to the public, and paid lobbyists must register. The convention would consider four areas: the judiciary, state finance, home rule and reapportionment. The delegates will make recommendations, each of which will be voted on separately next April. They are forbidden by law to tamper with the state uniformity clause which prohibits a graduated income tax."

Robert J. Zimmerman was installed as president of the New York Penn Chapter, American Institute of Industrial Engineers at the May chapter meeting. Zimmerman is division manager of industrial engineering for the Parts Division of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc. Other officers installed were Donald Langdon, National Forge, Irvine, as vice president, Martin Mariner, Corning Glass Works, Bradford, as secretary, Frank Fry, Sylvania Electric Products, Warren, as treasurer and Peter Stover, Dresser Industries, Bradford, as director.
The meeting was held at the Luthamian Club, Du Bois, with Charles G. Herbruck, assistant secretary, Lincoln Electric Co., Cleveland, Ohio, as principal speaker. Herbruck presented a talk about the Lincoln Electric Incentive Management Program. He described the philosophy of Lincoln Electric as being based on the adage that "Success is a journey — not a destination." The incentive of Success and the incentive of Recognition were presented in detail to show how each idea complemented the monetary portion of the recognition incentive. Having garnered 45 per cent of the welding equipment market, Lincoln has shown how successful their journey has remained.
John Schneider of Brockway Glass Co., Brockway, presided at the meeting as the retiring president.

Stock Prices Skid in Wake Of Four-Day Gaining Trend

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — Stock prices turned sharply downward yesterday, ending a four-day succession of strong-to-moderate gains.
The Dow Jones industrial average, which had broken through the 900-level only four sessions earlier, fell back below the magic number. It was off 9.74 points, and closed at 899.89.
Volume on the New York Stock Exchange rose to 10,83 million shares from 10,33 million shares Monday.
Of the 15 most-active stocks, 12 issues closed lower and three were up.
The volume leader, Kern County Land, was up 1 1/2, to 81 1/2, on trading of 150,200 shares. Trading in Kern County had been suspended all day Monday following an announcement that Occidental Petroleum would pay 83 1/2 a share for 300,000 Kern County shares, about 11.9 per cent of those outstanding.

It opened at 11:50 a.m. yesterday, when a block of 13,900 shares crossed the tape at 84. Occidental Petroleum was the third most-active issue on volume of 120,300 shares, and dropped 3 1/2 to 36 1/2. Officials of Kern County said they would oppose the Occidental offer.
Issues that declined in price totalled 889, against only 375 that advanced. There were 133 new 1967 highs, and 15 new lows.
Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.93 points, closing at 93.60. The New York Stock Exchange composite index closed at 51.40, for a drop of 0.53.
The New York Times combined average of 60 industrial and railroad stocks was off 6.26 at 531.03.
More than half of yesterday's decline in the Dow Jones industrial was caused by weakness in only 10 issues.
Drop of 7.46 points could be traced to losses of a point or more by Du Pont, Chrysler, Eastman Kodak, California

Standard, Jersey, Standard, Swift, United Aircraft, Anaconda, Union Carbide and Westinghouse.
The day's biggest loser—IBM — was in a hard-hit group of glamour and electronics issues. IBM was down 1 1/4 to 461.
Other losses in the glamour group included drops of 4 1/2 for Burroughs, to 119, 5 1/2 for Polaroid to 208 1/2, and 4 for L.G. & G. to 73 1/4. A loss of 6 1/4 to 175 1/2 was posted by Fairchild Camera.
Market sources said there might have been several reasons for the break in prices. One authority said the market simply was "digesting" the gains of the past few weeks. The market had been rising until 11:30 a.m., when news of disappointing March retail sales reached the trading floor. Prices on the American Stock Exchange also dropped sharply. The exchange's index of stock prices, up 6 cents at 11 a.m., closed down 25 cents at 18.95.

Sheffield's Gain

We'd like to echo Fred Bell's statements concerning the appointment of Joe Giordano as head football coach at Sheffield High School: the Wolverines' gain is the Dragons' loss.

The Orange and Black gains a dedicated man as their new grid mentor and the Blue and White losses an excellent line coach. Our friendship with Joe is about four years old, but we met nearly fourteen years ago on the athletic field, although we didn't speak a word or, possibly, even exchange a glance.

The occasion was the 1952 Warren-Bradford football game, under the lights on the Owls' gridiron. Joe was a halfback on the up-to-then winless Bradford eleven and we played guard and defensive end on a Dragon team that had won more than it had lost.

Joe was the fourth man in a fine backfield that included speedy Joe Di Fonzo, but the Dragons, with Toby Shea, Mike Mohny, Jim Tridico and Don Mahaffey lugging the pigskin, were rated pre-game favorites on their record alone.

That was to be, however, the Owls' night. The Blue and White came out on the short end of a 39-6 score, one of the worst shellackings a Bell-coached team has ever taken, and if our memory serves us correctly, Joe scored a pair of touchdowns in the romp.

The spark of that first triumph gave the Owls the momentum to win the remainder of their games, some by scores as equally lopsided as the Warren game.

Joe moved on to Edinboro after graduation from Bradford High and earned a reputation as an aggressive, tough linebacker.

And he coaches the same way he played. As the Dragons' line coach, Joe taught his charges to not only block the man across the line, but to wipe him out, then look for someone else to knock down.

He demanded aggressive, but smart, play from his defensive unit, calling for the maximum output 100 per cent of the time. Woe be to the defensive end who lets a halfback get outside or the tackle who allows himself to be trapped.

Because he had such a quick analytical football mind, Joe spent a lot of games in the pressbox or the stands relaying information to Bell on the sidelines, but he got his moment of glory two years ago, ironically, against his alma mater.

The Dragons were slated to host Bradford at War Memorial Field in the renewal of a rivalry that had been severed a few years before because of a regrettable incident during a basketball game.

Fred Bell, as luck would have it, became ill on the morning of the game and, from a hospital bed, turned the reins over to his two assistants, Joe Giordano and Chuck Mullen.

Despite the outstanding play of Bradford's Larry Visbisky, the Dragons turned in one of their better games of the season and emerged with a 26-13 victory. The line play of the locals played a big part in the triumph.

As head coach of the Wolverines, another ironical situation will occur during the 1967 season. Sheffield will renew an old and fierce rivalry, meeting Youngsville for the first time since the Wolverines inflicted a terrible beating on the Red and White a couple years ago.

The same Toby Shea that played with the '52 Dragon eleven that was stomped by Giordano and the Owls, and was head coach when the Eagles were demolished by the Wolverines, will get his chance to revenge both losses. Regardless of what kind of team each school is able to field this year, both will be coached by tough, determined men.

It could be an interesting game. One word of advice for Sheffield's gridders: get ready to work.

STEELE SHAVINGS—Jack Norton, former Northern Area all-around athlete, is currently swinging a hot bat for the Indiana State College nine, hitting around the .400 mark. He's also seeing some mound duty in relief.

Dave Adams, plebe wrestling coach at the Naval Academy for the past three years, has been named the new head mat mentor at Pitt, succeeding Dr. Dave Johnson who resigned to devote full time to his dentistry practice. A former two-time PIAA champion from Bellefonte, he piloted the Navy frosh to a 21-1 mark in his tenure there.

Adams was co-captain of Penn State's grappling team, was Eastern Champ and runner-up in the NCAA tourney at 147-pounds.

Things are looking up for Pitt wrestling fans. Before we forget it, the story of Vince Pace's heroism in Vietnam conjured up memories of the former WAHS tailback and sprinter running the bases at Carbon Memorial Field. The "wheels" must have been churning.

Detroit manager Mayo Smith (10) helps Willie Horton hold back Al Kaline after umpire Jerry Neudecker ruled Kaline's ground ball up the third base line was fair, creating a double play in the fifth inning of Monday's game with Baltimore. Kaline claimed the ball struck him on the foot in foul territory before going fair. Horton and Smith were successful in holding the Bengal batter back, but American League pitchers have not been able to check the hard-hitting outfielder, who currently leads the league with a .392 mark.

Clemente's Proving Point To Himself, NL Pitchers

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Now that he's convinced himself and National League pitchers that he can hit the long ball consistently, Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente seems determined to win his fourth batting title.

The 32-year-old outfielder has taken over the No. 1 spot in batting with a .367 average. He moved up from fourth place by gaining nine points with 10 hits in 26 times at bat during the week ending Monday.

Clemente won the NL batting crown in 1961 with .351, 1964 with .339 and 1965 with .329. Last season, he hit .317 but finished with career highs of 29 homers and 119 runs batted in.

He was named the circuit's Most Valuable Player.

Two of Clemente's teammates, shortstop Gene Alley and third baseman Maury Wills, follow him in the batting race. Alley advanced from 10th place to second on a 29-point gain to .356. Wills, the former Los Angeles Dodger star, is third with .351.

Orlando Cepeda of St. Louis is fourth at .348. Then comes Lou Brock, another Cardinal, .340. Brock, the runner-up a week ago, lost 47 points with only six hits in 28 tries.

Al Kaline of Detroit increased his American League lead. He climbed nine points to .392 with a 6-for-14 performance. Washington's Paul Casanova climbed from fourth to second on a three-point pickup to .344. He had seven safeties in 20 at bats.

Zoilo Versalles of Minnesota is third with .341 followed by Frank Robinson of Baltimore, .333 and Rod Carew, Minnesota, .319. Robinson, last year's triple crown winner, dropped 28 points while managing only three hits in 14 tries.

Kaline also paces the AL in homers with six and runs batted in, 16. Cincinnati's Deron Johnson is the NL's top man in homers with seven and shares the RBI lead with Brock at 20.

Maury Promises Revenge For Sadecki Knock-Down

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Maury Wills of the Pittsburgh Pirates says he'll get revenge on Ray Sadecki, San Francisco Giants pitcher who hit him with a pitch Friday night.

"I'm not going to forget that," said Wills, who was hit in the right knee.

"I don't believe in charging the mound or saying things to a pitcher," he said. "I'll wait, even if it takes me a month, a year or two years."

"I hope he doesn't leave the league before I do, or that I leave the league before him," he said. "I want to sting him."

Wills commented on a taped television interview by Dick Stockton of KDKA-TV, Pittsburgh.

The flashy third baseman was off to one of his best starts in years before the injury sidelined him. Wills is hitting .351 with 8 runs batted in and 12 runs scored.

"Baseball is a game that is rougher than a lot of people realize, but the players can take care of themselves," he said.

Asked if he thought Sadecki was purposely throwing at him, Wills said, "I don't know. . . (It was) sort of odd he was so wild at that particular time."

One pitch by Sadecki sailed over Wills' head and the next pitch caught him in the knee, the same knee that required surgery last year.

"It appeared to me he was throwing at me," said Wills.

Chimenti Team Hits 2858 in State Tourney

Chimenti's Restaurant ran a 2858 series in the Pennsylvania State Bowling tournament at Eastland Bowl in Erie on Sunday.

They had a handicap total of 3093, which, according to a spokesman for the team, should be well up in the money.

Scores for the Chimentis were: Art Check 214-576; Harry Pinsky 193-526; Dave Fink 248-626; Bob Saporto 224-562; Bob Check 204-568.

The individual game scores were 960, 984 and 934 for the scratch total of 2858. The second game was bowled without a miss by the entire team.

Next Sunday the team will return to Erie to bowl in the singles and doubles events.

Maris Hits First Homer, Cards Top Buccos Again

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Orlando Cepeda drove in two runs and scored two and Roger Maris socked his first National League homer as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3 last night.

Cepeda helped the Cardinals to a 2-0 lead in the third inning when he doubled in Julian Javier, who had a single. Cepeda took third on the throw to the plate and scored on Mike Shannon's sacrifice fly.

Pittsburgh closed to 2-1 in the fourth after Shannon threw wildly on Matty Alou's bunt. Alou advanced to third on an error and an infield out and came home on Gene Alley's single.

But Maris homered in the sixth inning, and St. Louis jumped on Pittsburgh starter Woody Fryman for three more runs in the seventh.

Javier got to second on a bunt when Lou Brock, who doubled to lead off the seventh, was caught in a run down. Cepeda then socked another double, scoring Javier, and after Shannon was walked intentionally, Tim McCarver tripled, scoring Cepeda and Shannon.

Tigers-Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Home runs by Al Kaline and Bill Freehan powered the Detroit Tigers to a 4-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians last night.

Kaline's homer, his seventh, followed a leadoff single by Dick McAuliffe in the fifth inning and broke a 1-1 tie. Freehan homered later in the inning with the bases empty.

The Indians got a run back in the bottom of the fifth when Lee Maye batted for starter and loser Sam McDowell, 2-1, and hit a home run into the right field stands.

The victory went to Denny McLain, 3-3.

Fred Gladding replaced McLain with two out in the seventh after the Indians scored on Larry Brown's infield hit. Fred Whitfield's pinch double and infield out.

The Tigers got a run in the first inning when McAuliffe reached first on a fielder's choice, went to second on a walk to Kaline, advanced to third on infield out and scored on catcher Duke Sims' passed ball.

Cubs-Giants

CHICAGO (AP) — Pitcher Ray Culp's two-run triple in a four-run sixth inning lifted the Chicago Cubs to a 10-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants yesterday.

Culp was removed after yielding to runs on four hits in the seventh, but was credited with his second victory against two setbacks. Bill Hands finished up.

Tom Haller of the Giants had two doubles and a single in his first three trips, extending his streak to seven consecutive hits. He was on base 10 straight times before knocking out in the eighth.

Ron Santo collected five singles for the Cubs.

Glenn Beckert homered for Chicago in the first inning and Ernie Banks slammed a bases-loaded double for two more Cubs' runs in the seventh.

The Giants scored their runs on doubles by Haller and pinch-hitter Bill Sorrell plus singles by Jesus Alou and Ken Henderson.

Astros-Dodgers

HOUSTON (AP) — Ron Davis drove in two runs with a homer and a single last night as Houston defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2.

Davis' homer in the fifth inning capped a two-run rally, and his single in the seventh drove in Ron Brand, who had singled and advanced to second on a sacrifice.

Larry Dierker needed ninth-inning relief help from Claude Raymond before bringing his record to 3-2 for the Astros. Dierker also drove in the first run in the fifth inning with a sacrifice fly.

The Astros took a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning when Joe Morgan tripled against Sonny Jackson, who had doubled, and scored as Rusty Staub grounded into a double play.

Ron Hunt singled in the Dodgers' first run in the fifth inning and Ron Fairly scored their second as Wes Parker grounded into a double play in the eighth.

Mets-Reds

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy Davis' 11th-inning home run gave the New York Mets a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati last night.

Davis' shot, his third, came off Reds' Mel Queen, who lost his first game after winning four.

Queen relieved Cincinnati starter Gary Nolan in the eighth inning and struck out six in setting the Mets down until Davis'.

homer over the left-field wall. The Reds tied the game 2-2 on an unearned run in the eighth after pinch hitter Art Shamsky led off with a single. Pinch runner Dick Simpson took second on a sacrifice, third on a fly out, and scored on a passed ball by catcher John Sullivan.

Shamsky's single was only the fourth hit off Jack Fisher, who yielded a bases-empty homer by Lee Maye leading off the seventh. Fisher went the distance, winning his second game of the season and giving up six hits.

The Mets took a 1-0 lead against 18-year-old Gary Nolan in the fourth when Cleon Jones drilled his first homer of the season. Ken Harrison led off the sixth with a triple and scored on Allaplow's sacrifice fly, giving New York a 2-0 edge.

ChiSox-Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — Don Buford's tie-breaking single in the seventh inning extended Chicago's winning streak to five as the White Sox defeated Baltimore 5-4 last night and dealt the Orioles their fifth consecutive loss.

The first four Chicago runs scored on homers by Tommy Agee and Ron Hansen after Baltimore starter Tom Phoebus yielded leadoff walks in the first and fifth innings.

A homer by Boog Powell, following a pair of two-out walks in the first inning, gave Baltimore a 3-2 lead. The Orioles came from behind again, tying the score 4-4 in the sixth, when Paul Blair's sacrifice fly scored Brooks Robinson who had doubled and moved to third on an infield out.

Complete 1st Round Set In Heavyweight Tourney

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A tentative four-bout schedule for an elimination tournament to determine the successor to heavyweight champion Cassius Clay was outlined yesterday by Michael Malitz, president of a new promoting firm to be known as Sports Action, Inc.

In the meantime, there were reports that Clay wants to fight at least three contenders outside the United States while under indictment on a charge of refusing to be drafted into

Cassius Clay's Father Stabbed

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Cassius Clay Sr., father of the former heavyweight champion, was listed in satisfactory condition yesterday after being stabbed in the chest while at a restaurant.

Charged in the case is Marian Odessa Dorsey, 35, who was released on $200 bond pending a police court appearance July 6.

Clay, 54, was at a restaurant Saturday when he was called to the door by a woman who said she wanted to see him.

Clay told friends, "I'm in trouble now."

Shortly thereafter, Clay's friends found him outside with a wound in the chest.

the armed forces.

Malitz said previously that seven of eight contenders listed by the New York State Commission and the World Boxing Association had agreed to participate in the tourney. Only Joe Frazier of Philadelphia was uncommitted.

According to Malitz, a guiding force in many of Clay's closed circuit television bouts, the tentative schedule would read like this:

July 15 — Floyd Patterson of New York vs. Oscar Bonavena of Argentina at Houston Astro-dome.

Aug. 4-5 — Ernie Terrell of Chicago vs. Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., site to be determined.

Sept. 2 or Sept. 16 — George Chuvalo of Toronto vs. Frazier, site to be determined.

Sept. 16 or Oct. 7 — Karl Mildenberger, West Germany, vs. Thad Spencer, San Francisco, in Frankfurt, Germany.

According to Malitz, the first round matches would be followed by semifinals, hopefully Oct. 21 and Dec. 2 with a final championship bout in late January, 1968. No actual contracts have been signed.

Malitz said the first six fights probably would be carried on home television on the American Broadcasting Company's Wide World of Sports. All would be held late Saturday afternoons to fit the schedule or would be held Friday night and taped for television.

In the opening bouts, each fighter would be guaranteed $50,000 and 30 per cent of the gate receipts over $100,000; the guarantees would rise to $75,000 for each semifinalist and at least $125,000 for the finals.

Clay said in Houston Monday he would like to fight Chuvalo, Patterson and Mildenberger to finance his court fight.

Irv Ungerman of Toronto, who manages Chuvalo, said in Toronto "We're very, very eager to get him, but we'll also try to fight Frazier in the elimination tournament."

There were other reports that Clay was considering boxing Leotis Martin of Toledo, Ohio in Stockholm and possibly Spencer in Tokyo. If Clay wants to fight outside the country he will have to get permission to leave the country from a federal judge.

While all this maneuvering was going on, Terrell went back to work in the gym for the first time since he suffered an eye injury in his 15-round losing bout with Clay in Houston, Feb. 6.

Terrell had been given the green light to resume boxing by Dr. Harold G. Schele, chairman of the department of Ophthalmology at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, the surgeon who operated on his eye. Terrell claimed he had double and triple vision after the bout and charged Clay had fouled him.

After yesterday's fast three-round workout with Rudy Davis of Philadelphia, Terrell smiled and said, "I only saw one guy today. When Clay jabbed me in Houston it looked like three punches were coming at me. After I got that broken bone under the eye he looked like he was two and a half times taller."

Milde Isn't Interested In Rematch

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The manager of German's Karl Mildenberger, the European heavyweight champion, vetoed yesterday a possible fight with Cassius Clay in Stockholm, Sweden.

"Without a title, Clay has nothing to offer," said Wolfgang Mueller. The manager commented on report from Houston that Clay hoped to have three fights outside the United States, one of them with Mildenberger, to help finance his court battle against Army induction.

"Why should Mildenberger help finance that?" said Mueller. "Clay without a title is nobody and has nothing to offer. Anyway, Mildenberger is lined up for the title eliminations and we won't do anything that could jeopardize this with the world boxing authorities."

Mildenberger virtually is set to meet Thad Spencer of San Francisco at Frankfurt, Sept. 2 or 16 in the first fight of a proposed eight-man elimination tournament.

Clay was stripped of his title by the World Boxing Association and the New York Athletic Commission for refusing induction into the armed services. He has been indicted for this by a federal grand jury in Houston.

Mildenberger was stopped by Clay on a 12th round TKO at Frankfurt last Sept. 12.

Cassius' Luck Not All Bad!

CHICAGO (AP) — Cassius Clay has struck oil in a well he owns 40 miles south of San Antonio, the boxer's manager, Herbert Muhammad, said yesterday.

"It is our first well and we hit oil the first time," Muhammad said. "We were told of it last Saturday. We have options to buy five other sites in the same area."

Muhammad said he and Clay "changed our minds" about buying a farm near Tuskegee, Ala., although negotiations for the purchase had been started,

Trial Runs For Rebel 400 Today

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — Darlington Raceway's track records are almost sure to fall today when qualifying begins for Saturday's $68,000 Rebel 400 mile stock car race.

A long list of favorites, headed by last year's winner Richard Petty, practiced at speeds well above the one- and four-lap records set by Petty in qualifying in 1966. The marks the drivers will shoot at are 141,226 miles per hour for one lap and 140,815 for four turns around the mile and three-eighths paved raceway.

Among the drivers turning in top practice speeds, most of them well above 142.5 m.p.h., were Ford drivers Dick Hutcherson and Darel Dieringer, Plymouth's Petty and Mercury's Bobby Allison.

Aiding the drivers in gaining more speed was a new paving in the speedway's tricky third and fourth turns. Cars must go through these turns single file, but the new surface gives them better traction.

Petty, going after a NASCAR record 55th Grand National victory, is the established favorite to take Saturday's top money of about $15,000.

Eight places in the 36-car starting field will be decided today, including the coveted pole spot. Eight more will qualify tomorrow and the last 20 on Friday.

Missing from this year's field is Fred Lorenzen, the top Ford star for years. Lorenzen retired three weeks ago and his car was taken over by David Pearson, who was among Tuesday's swiftest.

If the weather is good, speedway officials predict a crowd of close to 35,000.

Racer Near Death, His Wife Hospitalized, Too

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Italian auto racer Lorenzo Bandini's pregnant wife Margarita, 28, lay in a state of nervous shock in a room next to her husband's yesterday.

Mrs. Bandini was put to rest with calming drugs after Sunday's accident from which her husband lies near death. Doctors reported that her nervous seizures risked not only harming her unborn baby but her own health as well.

Meanwhile, Claude Bourillot, president of the French Federation of Car Racing, said most racing tracks are outmoded. He proposed the immediate creation of a team of professional course commissioners.

"For many years, we have refused to follow progress," he said. "We are like aviators trying to land Boeing jets on the airfields dating back to 1914."

Ex-Buc Has Chance To Strike Out Ump

... FROM POLITICAL MOUND

By IRA MILLER

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Friend and Vinnie Smith spent about the same amount of time in professional baseball — Friend as a pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates and Smith as a National League umpire.

Both have retired, Smith in 1965 and Friend last year, and next week they meet in another game — politics — and again on opposite sides of the fence.

Friend, who won 191 games in 15 seasons with the Pirates (and six more in one year with the Mets and Yankees), and Smith, whose promising playing career (as a Pirate catcher) was wiped out by injuries, are candidates for nomination for controller of Allegheny County in next Tuesday's primary election.

Friend is a Republican, Smith a Democrat.

The two took different routes from baseball to politics.

Friend, who is assistant to the president of a Pittsburgh bank, is the Republican organizational candidate, even though he was a registered Democrat until the day he filed his nominating petition.

He said he was "asked to get involved" in the race by some county Republican leaders, decided he would, switched his registration and became a candidate.

"I figured that was fine," Friend said. "Politics is a good competitive game now that I'm out of baseball. I have an opportunity to serve the people of Pittsburgh who have been so kind to me."

Smith, however, is a maverick, who filed for nomination after the Democratic county committee endorsed James W. Knox, seeking his sixth four-year term.

"They (the committeemen) just went in on their own and picked who they wanted," Smith said. "I didn't think it was right. Why should you have chairmen if you're not going to consult them?"

Smith was referring to ward chairmen, who he says were not consulted before the committeemen announced the organizational slate.

Friend is making it clear that he doesn't necessarily consider his entry into politics a one-shot affair, regardless of the outcome.

"I'm in it now and I'm going all out. I'm not in this just to be in it. As a ballplayer, you don't get much chance to be involved in politics. I enjoy this and I think my chances are good."

Smith, who says he never had any trouble with Friend when both were in the majors, says he would welcome the race against the former pitcher.

"I never had too much trouble with him," Smith said. "I always talked nice with him. All that ever happened was that he just looked at me a few times. Of course, I looked at him a few times, too."

Haller Contest Busy Despite Rain, Cold

TIONESTA — Snow chilled the walleye and muskie fishermen Saturday morning and rain soaked them Sunday, but in between dozens of anglers on the Allegheny River and Tionesta Creek caught many prize fish.

Two outstanding walleyes, four muskies, and four trout were entered in the Haller fishing contest.

The largest muskie was a 42-inch lunker caught by George Sekra of Canonsburg. He was fishing in Tionesta Reservoir and using a chub for bait. Sekra's muskie weighed 18-3/4 pounds.

However, the hottest spot for muskie anglers was the outlet of Tionesta Reservoir. At least three legal-size lunge were landed there, all on chubs and small suckers.

The lucky anglers were: Blaise Clemente of Bellevue, a 30-inch lunge. Clemente "lost" another lunge.

John and Joe Janatka of Norristown and Murrysville caught 32 and 34-inch lunge at the outlet. Both men claimed they also "lost" a muskie apiece.

Their catches were made Saturday at midmorning. About 30 fishermen, men, women and boys were fishing the outlet. The walleyes were surprising as to size.

Frank C. Slack of Bulger, spinning a red and white dangle spoon at the sand and gravel island, landed a 28-inch, 9-3/4 pike about 10 a.m. Saturday.

Bulger is the same lucky angler who a couple years ago won a trailer in a North Park, Pittsburgh, fishing contest when he caught a 26-inch channel cat.

Haller's trout contest also received four new entries last week.

Fred W. Anderson of Tionesta registered 20, 18, and 13-1/4-inch brown trout which he landed in Pitthole and Tionesta Creeks. Anderson used a night-crawler and Mepps Spinners.

Fred Dietz of Titusville, RD 5 added another entry in the contest. Fishing Tionesta Creek he caught an 18-inch brown on a minnow.

Anderson and Dietz are now tied for "most-trout-over-15-inches" in the Haller contest. The longest trout measures 23-1/2-inches and was submitted on the opening weekend by Danny Stojanovich of Industry.

Tom Howley of Pittsburgh brought a 27-1/4-inch walleye for consideration in the contest. However, since his pike was caught in Oil Creek, and the contest is limited to the Allegheny River and Tionesta Creek, his pike cannot be considered eligible for any prizes.

The Haller derby will award $50 each for the longest walleye, muskellunge and trout caught in this area. The trout can be caught anywhere in Venango, Crawford, Forest and Warren Counties, but the pike, muskies and walleyes must be taken in waters mentioned above.

Another division of the contest, starting in June, will include bass.

Hallers will also award $25 apiece for the most legal muskies, most walleyes 20 inches or longer and most trout 15 inches or longer.

Agase Also Raps Punt Rule Change

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Coach Alex Agase of Northwestern, joining critics of college's football's new punt rule, said yesterday his Wildcats will slight the rule by kicking out of bounds this fall.

"You'll see a lot of teams doing it," said Agase, who agreed with recent complaint by Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian that the rule will cause a lot of injuries.

On punts this fall five linemen on the kicking team must stay on the scrimmage line until the ball is in the air.

"The receiving team can put two men on each end to keep them from racing downfield when the ball is snapped and set up a wall in front of the receiver," said Agase, once top assistant to Parseghian at Northwestern.

"There will be a lot of blind side blocking. You may lose 10 yards off your punting average kicking out of bounds, but it's better than to have the ball run down your throat for six points."

Agase, a member of the coaches' rules committee, said "no coach ever asked for anything like this." The change was made by the national rules committee to encourage punt returns.

Quick Getaway

NEW YORK, May 9 — It was a somewhat startling statement for a manager to make but Dave Bristol of the Cincinnati Reds dropped it casually into the conversation without the slightest consciousness of its significance. He was talking about Ted Abernathy, his sensational relief pitcher, who is new to the Reds but far from new to the sport. The tall, lanky artist throws underhand, a style made famous almost half a century ago by Carl Mays, first of the rare breed of submariners.

"Ted was a sidearm pitcher," said Dave with the utmost casualness, "when I used to bat against him in high school and American Legion ball back home in North Carolina."

It comes as a bit of a shock to find a big league manager as a contemporary of his own players. But Dave is the youngest manager in the majors, come six weeks short of his 34th birthday, and he is three months younger than his relief ace.

The Reds have surprised and delighted their followers this season with the quickest of getaways from the starting barrier. They won 10 of their first 15 games and the fellow who contributed hugely was Abernathy, a guy discarded by both the Cubs and Braves a year ago before being drafted from Richmond by Cincinnati. Of those first 10 Redie victories, the underhand deliverer was credited with one win and seven saves.

"Ted threw overhand in high school, continued the dynamic Dave, "but hurt his arm as a sophomore and switched to sidearm. After he turned pro, his arm was operated on and he learned to throw underhand. His fast ball sinks down and away or sometimes it rises, depending on the pressure he puts on it with his fingers. He really makes it do something."

But Abernathy is not the only one to give the Reds a lift. Bristol has had the Midas touch and it's been such productive alchemy that his ball club is leading the league. The one flaw that forecasters had spotted in pre-season estimates was a thinness in pitching. It has disappeared.

Jim Maloney, the star of the ensemble, had the miseries before a game with the Giants. On the way to the ball park Bristol rode with Mel Queen, an outfielder until last July when Dave decided to convert him into a pitcher. Queen was unshaven and haggard looking.

"You all right?" said Dave.

"Sure," said Queen. "I'm rarin' to go."

So Bristol gave him his first major league start against the Giants. He pitched a shutout and finished with the flourish of striking out the side in the last inning. He now has won four games.

Milt Pappas had to miss a starting turn. Jerry Arrigo was hauled in to take his place. Arrigo spun a one-hitter.

Gary Nolan, aged 18, was a big kid at training camp who wasn't even on the roster. The more Bristol saw of the oversized infant prodigy the more he liked him. The boy has pitched wonderfully well and is in the regular rotation. Both Sammy Ellis and Billy McCool have been consistently excellent. The two who most please Bristol, however, are Nolan and Queen. Perhaps that's because they are his own discoveries.

"What I like most about Nolan," said Dave, "is his poise and his attitude. He's brash but not cocky. When I told him he would start our fourth game, he gave me a nonchalant, 'Okay, Skipper.' I suddenly realized that he'd been made in it. I hadn't given him the chance. How often do you find that sort of confidence in an 18-year-old kid?"

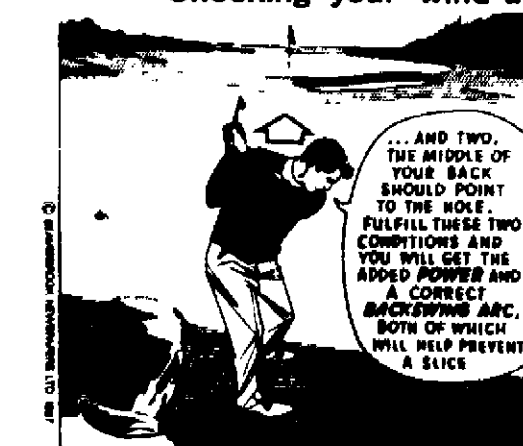

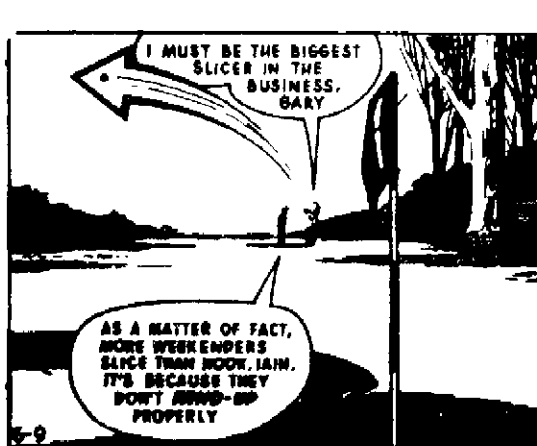

"But the thing that impressed me most was a game with the Dodgers. Nolan had been beaten 1-0 with two out in the ninth and two strikes on Jim Hickman. Then Hickman doubled in the tying run. A lot of pitchers would have been so disheartened that they'd have dropped the wad right there. But Nolan fanned the next hitter on three pitches. We eventually won the game in the 13th.

"When I took over as manager last July, I chased Queen to the bullpen because I liked the way he could fire the ball. He made his debut against the Cards and struck out two of the three men he faced. He fanned the side against the Cubs on another day. We finally sent him to the instructional school and then to Venezuela.

"He grew a beard and was such a tough-looking guy that they called him 'El Hombre.' He was a pretty tough pitcher, too. He had a 7-and-2 record, losing a couple of one-run games, and his earned-run average was an eye-popping 0.76. We're tickled by all the young arms we have on the club and they all can throw hard. They have plenty of smoke."

And where there's smoke, there's fire, and the Reds have been hotter than most this season.

Local Hospital Control?

"It would be a welcome thing for the department and the state and a good thing for the communities," Rosenn told a joint House - Senate appropriations committee hearing on the Public Welfare Department's proposed $639.6 million budget for the 1967-68 fiscal year.

On the matter of state-owned general hospitals, Rosenn said that he was aware of unsuccessful efforts in the past to have local communities assume control of the institutions.

"The financial gymnastics could be worked out," Rosenn said. "The big problem is convincing communities they ought to assume their responsibilities."

Mullen said the communities probably can't be induced to take over the institutions because "they're getting something for nothing now."

The state's general hospitals are situated at Ashland, Blossburg, Coaldale, Connellsville, Hazleton, Locust Mountain, Nanticoke, Philipsburg, Scranton and Shamokin.

Other major items in the department's budget include $118.7 million for mental health services, $390 million for public assistance, $10.9 million for services for children and youth and $41.5 million for mental retardation programs.

Win Them Tureen DinnerHeld

The Win Them Class of the Methodist Church enjoyed a tureen dinner at the church for their May meeting with Mrs. Harry Pearson and Mrs. Charles Pearson as hostesses. Mrs. Charles Pearson presided at the meeting and Mrs. Mae Wood gave the devotion. Secret sisters were revealed and new names drawn for those wishing to.

The nominating committee composed of Mrs. Ward Sharp, Mrs. Edwin Branstrom and Mrs. Maynard Dexter presented the slate of officers for the next year and those elected were: president, Mrs. Bernice Peterson, vice president, Mrs. Sherman Burdick, 2nd vice president, Mrs. Bernice Baxter, Secretary, Mrs. Maynard Dexter, assistant secretary, Mrs. James Fleming; treasurer, Mrs. Claude Perrigo, teachers are, Mrs. Floyd Lindquist, Mrs. Gerry Briggs and Mrs. Mae Wood.

Clarendon Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Farrel and son, John, former Weldbank residents, but now of Winter Haven, Florida, are spending a couple of weeks visiting relatives and friends here.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Fiegar were her father Russell Bailey of Erie, an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Bailey from Union City, and a niece Lila Hunt also of Erie.

Children's Day was observed in the Methodist church on Sunday, several songs were sung by the primary department, also an anthem "It Is No Secret" by the Junior Choir. The sermon by Rev. Dowling was entitled "Childlike or Childish?" Among those who are attending the program at Wesley Woods this week end are the following: Barbara Bullock, Patty Bullock, Marilyn Freeman, Patty Cloutman and Nellie Parks.

Mrs. Minnie Vicini has returned to her home after having spent a couple of weeks with her son Bob and family in Cochran.

The Weldbank ladies who assisted at the Rummage Sale sponsored by the Diamond Grange, were: Neva Champion, Minnie Vicini, and Cell Wyckoff.

Friends of Mrs. Margaret Paul will be sorry to learn that she is a patient in the WCA Hospital in Jamestown for back surgery following a fall at her home in February.

Friends of Donny Steele will be glad to hear that he is recuperating nicely in the Warren General Hospital, following his injury at the high school recently.

Grange Remembers Past State Master

Akeley Grange met Friday evening and the charter was draped in memory of Past State Master, Beaty H. Dimt, Miss Ida Grace Larson presided and reported fifteen members attended the Legislative dinner meeting held at Mountain Grange recently.

Also announced was the Pomona meeting to be held at Forest Grange on May 13. The Home Economics program will be held in the morning session and in the afternoon, the annual memorial service and Lecturer's program. The evening session will feature a youth program and the conferring of the 5th degree. It was also reported that the "Visitation" meeting scheduled for May 22 at Columbus has been cancelled.

The first and second degrees were conferred on Paul and Edna Soderberg, and Louis Benson was reinstated as a member.

It was voted to send the Youth chairman, the Home Economic chairman and the Lecturer to Leadership school at Gettysburg on June 27, 28, 29. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ecklund and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Slagle were welcomed back from spending the winter in Florida.

The next meeting will be held on May 19 with a tureen dinner at 6:30 preceding the meeting. The 3rd and 4th degree will be conferred and any other Grange having members to be initiated are welcome to bring them. May birthdays will also be observed.

Philathian Bible Class Met Tuesday

The Philathian Bible Class of the Clarendon Methodist church, met in Fellowship hall on Tuesday evening, with 8 members present; devotions were in charge of Martha Schneider who took as her subject, "Mother Love".

Scripture Reading was from Proverbs, and a short story and poem entitled "Apron Strings" followed by prayer and the song, "Sweet Hour Of Prayer", following which she read an article "I Would Be True" telling the story of the Hymn by that name, how it happened to be written and published, by Howard Arnold Walter.

Business meeting was conducted by the president. The following officers were re-elected to serve for the coming year—President, Martha Schneider, vice-president, Mary Campbell, Secretary, Gladys Burns, and Treasurer, Austrid Ecklund. Plans for the annual dinner to be held in June were then discussed. A letter of Thanks from Linna

Knight for planter and cards sent to her while she was a patient in the hospital, was then read, following which Grace McBride took charge of the program. The evening was spent in displaying about 50 pictures, historical and scenic, and names were to be given to each one; it proved to be very interesting and educational. Refreshments were then served by the hostess, Austrid Ecklund. The next meeting will be the dinner on June 6th.

Win-One Has Meet

The Win-One Sunday School class held their May meeting in the church parlors on Thursday evening with 19 members present. The meeting was in charge of Miss Nancy Nollinger, and Mrs. Ethel Bullock had charge of devotions. During the business meeting the class voted to go to "Scotties" at Cooks Forest for their annual dinner on the 1st of June, anyone wishing to go please make reservations with Nancy Nollinger. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Miss Nancy Nollinger, vice president, Mrs. Marjory Flick, secretary, Mrs. Eleanor Springer, and treasurer, Mrs. Mildred Nollinger. A social hour followed with delicious refreshments being served by the hostesses, Mrs. Lorraine Youngquist, and Mrs. Mary Campbell.

Mother's Day Special

Whether dinner BY mother or FOR mother on her day, a menu both special and easy is in order. A butter-basted two pound turkey roast fills these requirements deliciously. If the youngsters take over kitchen duty to honor mother, the turkey roast is simple to prepare. It cooks in the oven for two hours without special attention. The basting is built into the roast. In families with small tots and mother cooks dinner herself, she will appreciate the same convenience which gives her more time out of the kitchen.

be simple too. Baked potatoes are a natural. They go into the oven during the final hour the turkey roast cooks. Tomato tulips brighten the salad course when stuffed with coleslaw. Or, if daughter knows her way around the kitchen, she may want to serve the tomato tulips hot filled with a mushroom cheese stuffing. The coleslaw would then be served separately.

For dessert give mother her favorite flavor of ice cream. Perhaps she will choose party peach ice cream or delicate apricot sherbet. There are plenty of other days in the year to serve chocolate or strawberry. Butter cookies either home baked or from a package are the finishing touch. TURKEY ROAST WITH MUSHROOM-STUFFED TOMATOES+

Yield: 6 servings
Butter Basted, 2 lb. turkey roast
4 ounces fresh mushrooms
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons chopped onions
3 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk
6 medium, firm tomatoes

6 tablespoons shredded Cheddar cheese
Roast turkey according to directions on package. Clean mushrooms and chop fine. Melt butter in a heavy skillet. Sauté mushrooms and onion until tender. Blend in flour, salt, and pepper. Stir in milk gradually. Cook over low heat until thickened, stirring occasionally.
Wash tomatoes and cut off tops. Scoop out centers. Sprinkle insides with salt and pepper. Fill each tomato with creamed mushrooms. Place tomatoes in buttered, shallow baking dish. Sprinkle 1 tablespoon of shredded cheese over each tomato. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) 8 to 10 minutes.

EASY TO PREPARE

A special menu for Mother's Day, whether cooked by or for Mother, is simple, easy to prepare, and may even keep Mother out of the kitchen while the family honors her on Her Day.

A Buffet Supper

If you buy the cake layers, this dessert will be "easy cooking."
Shrimp Gumbo
Steamed Rice
Salad Bowl
Hot Biscuits
APRICOT CREAM LAYERCAKE
8 eight-inch round spongecake or similar layers
¾ cup apricot preserves
¼ cup brandy
1½ cups heavy cream
3 tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons vanilla
Arrange 4 wide strips of wax paper over cake plate so center of plate is uncovered and strips may be easily removed. Place one cake layer in center of plate. If preserves have large pieces of apricot in them, cut or mash these fine; mix preserves with brandy. Put cake layers together with preserves as filling. Beat cream until stiff, adding sugar and vanilla toward end of beating; use to frost entire top and sides of cake. Remove wax paper strips. Refrigerate until serving time. (After frosting sets, cover with foil tent or large high container that will not touch whipped cream.)

DIFFERENT AND ATTRACTIVE

For a family favorite, Swiss steak . . . the last minute, pile canned French cut carrots on meat is prepared in the usual way. Then, at the top, it's different, attractive, and ever so good.

Favorite Main Course

Of all good main course dishes Swiss steak is one of the best. And, of all the recipe versions our favorite uses round steak with a well seasoned tomato sauce and a special vegetable topping. It's easy to fix and pleases most everyone. Here's a complete menu.

+ Vegetable Smothered Swiss Steak

Steak
Baked Potatoes
Sour Cream
Crisp Relishes
Hard Rolls
Canned Peaches with Soft Custard
Milk
Coffee

This is one dinner you can start to cook a couple of hours before mealtime. When the serving size portions of meat are well browned, add the sauce, pop on the skillet cover and let it simmer to almost fork tender on top of the range. Now here's the feature that makes this recipe a favorite—have canned French cut carrots drained and ready to pile on each serving for the last few minutes of simmering.

Baked potatoes and plenty of crisp relishes are naturals with Vegetable Smothered Swiss Steak, and both are easily managed.

+ VEGETABLE SMOTHERED SWISS STEAK

1/4 cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 lbs. round steak (about 3/4-inch thick)
2 tablespoons shortening
1 cup canned tomatoes
2 medium onions
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1/4 cup chopped celery
1 clove garlic
1 can (1 lb.) French cut carrots

Mix flour, salt and pepper. Put steak on a chopping board and sprinkle half the flour mixture over it. Pound into the steak with the edge of a saucer. Turn steak over, sprinkle with remaining flour mixture and pound into steak. Cut meat into six portions. Melt shortening in a heavy skillet and brown meat on both sides. Pour tomatoes over meat and sprinkle thinly sliced onions on top. Mix tomato sauce, celery and finely chopped garlic. Pour over steak. Cover pan and simmer gently about 1 1/2 hours, or until meat is almost tender. Remove cover and continue simmering about 1/2 hour. Just before serving pile drained carrots on top of meat servings. Cover and heat 5 minutes. Six servings.

+ SPECIAL CELERY CREAM SAUCE

Serve this versatile sauce over vegetables or with meat. Crisply fry two slices bacon. Remove from pan and pour off half of the drippings. Stir in canned condensed cream of celery soup, some slivered almonds and the crumbled bacon; heat.

Artichokes

Star in Spring

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
The artichoke is such a festive-looking vegetable that you can serve it in the simplest way and have it add interest to any menu.

What's the simplest way? Cooked in boiling water, drained and offered with a dip.

In the following recipe hot garlic-flavored butter is the dip. Any eater who is devoted to hot garlic bread is bound to enjoy this accompaniment.

Artichokes prepared this way make an excellent first course at lunch or dinner. Or they can substitute for a salad. Just be sure you put the artichokes on individual plates so eaters will have plenty of room for the leaves after they scrape off the meaty base of each one with their teeth. Fingers are used to pull out the leaves, but forks and knives will be needed for removing the thistlelike choke. After the choke comes the best part of all—the bottom of the artichoke containing the heart.

ARTICHOKES WITH HOT

GARLIC BUTTER
4 large artichokes
1 quart boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons olive oil
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
1 large garlic clove, peeled and quartered

Cut off artichoke stems so artichokes will stand straight. Pull off any small or coarse leaves at bottom. With a sharp heavy wide-blade knife, cut off — straight across — 1/2 to 1 inch off the top. With scissors, clip off thorny tip of each leaf. Thoroughly wash artichokes in cold water. Stand the artichokes, stem side down, in a kettle or Dutch oven into which they just fit — a straight-side utensil that is about 10 inches in diameter and 4 inches deep is fine. Add the boiling water, salt and olive oil. Bring to a boil; cover and boil until bottoms of artichokes (the hearts) are tender when pierced with a fork — 35 to 45 minutes. Place artichokes, stem side up, in a colander to drain.

Meanwhile, in a small saucepan over very low heat, melt the butter; add garlic; cover and allow to stand over very low heat for about 1/2 hour. Remove garlic; skim off white foam at top. Pour butter — about 2 tablespoons for each — into 4 small containers (Oriental cups without handles are fine). Serve this hot garlic butter as a dip for the fleshy part at the base of the leaves and for the heart after the center thistle-like part (the choke) has been removed. Makes 4 servings.

Mother's Day Menu

Neither dad nor the kids have to know much about cooking to get this meal on the table for Mother's Day. The planning may have to start off with a hint from mom such as clipping this story and pinning it on the family bulletin board. (If that fails, then be more specific.)

MOTHER'S DAY MENU
Cranberry Juice Cocktail

Apricot Glazed Ham
Yams in Orange Cups
Buttered Asparagus
Tossed Greens with Orange Wedges
Whipped Gelatin
Hot Coffee
Cookies
Milk

The children can learn some basic cookery secrets preparing this food. One is that canned tomato sauce with mushrooms mixed with fruit preserves makes one of the best and easiest meat glazes known. The mushrooms add that gourmet touch you want for a special occasion.

For the orange cups, cut large oranges in half and with sharp paring knife, remove the sections. With spoon scrape out white membrane; fill with mashed and seasoned canned yams. Use orange sections in salad.

APRICOT GLAZED HAM
1 (1 1/2") precooked ham steak
Cloves
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce with mushrooms
3/4 cup apricot preserves
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
2 teaspoons vinegar

Stud ham steak with cloves and place in baking pan. Combine remaining ingredients and pour enough over to cover ham. Bake for 1 hour. Heat remaining sauce and serve. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

A cut clove of garlic added to oil-and-vinegar salad dressing gives robust flavor. Allow the garlic to stand in the dressing overnight, then remove it - it will have done its best!

Toothpicks will help you hold two cake layers together after they have been filled and frosted. The picks should, of course be removed before serving.

COOK MOM'S MEAL

Father and offspring cook Mother's Day meal: Apricot Glazed Ham, yams in orange cups, buttered asparagus, tossed greens with orange wedges, whipped gelatin and cookies for dessert.

CANCER'S WARNING SIGNALS

The American Cancer Society urges that all people know cancer's warning signals. They are: unusual bleeding or discharge; a lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere; a sore that does not heal; change in bowel or bladder habits; hoarseness or cough; indigestion or difficulty in swallowing; change in a wart or mole. These usually do not mean cancer, but they are warnings; if a signal lasts more than two weeks it is important to go to your doctor.

What is A Mother?

To her family, she's special.

She's understanding,

a banquet chef, a short order cook,

a fountain of love, a chauffeur, warmth and security.

She's clean socks, starched dresses,

a mender of hurts.

She's scrubbed ears,

a tender nurse, a maid, a queen.

She deserves a day of honor and tribute.

She deserves the love of those she loves.

Yes, she's very, very special.

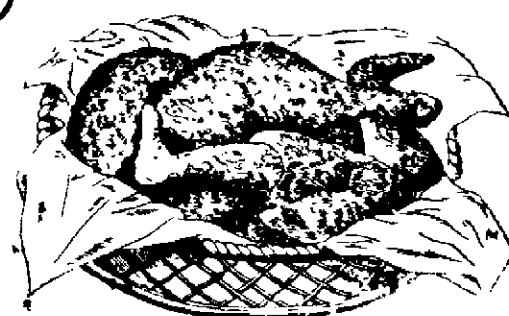

This Sunday, you'll tell your mother

how much you care.

We'd like to tell all mothers, "We Care, too."

Southern Style Date Dessert

Have you ever baked dates into a pie? This may open up a whole new world of dessert ideas, as it takes a favorite Southern style delicacy, custard pie, and dresses it up with dates. Rich but not too sweet, they add just the right touch of flavor to make the pie truly elegant.

If your family likes the hearty old-fashioned goodness of buttermilk they'll find another reason to favor this Buttermilk Date Pie. Buttermilk, used instead of regular milk, enhances the flavor and adds the same quota of health-giving milk protein. A pie like this is an excellent way to get more milk into the family's diet, since it rates as a special treat.

There's grated lemon rind to counterbalance the sweetness of the dates, and vanilla to flavor the basic custard mixture. Actually, it's not a true custard as it uses flour and butter; it bears some resemblance to another down-South favorite, chess pie. Another special touch in the crust is the addition of a bit of cornmeal along with the flour.

Sprinkle the pie with nutmeg before it bakes. When it's sliced into wedges for serving the dates appear like magic, surrounded by creamy, melt-in-your-mouth good filling. It's a delightful dessert for a bridge party, ladies' luncheon, or family dinner.

BUTTERMILK-DATE PIE

- CRUST:
- 1 cup regular all-purpose flour
  - 1/4 cup cornmeal
  - 1/4 teaspoon salt
  - 3 tablespoons butter
  - 2 tablespoons lard
  - 1 3/4 cup milk
- FILLING:
- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter, firm
  - 1/2 cup sugar
  - 3 eggs
  - 1/4 cup flour

- 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups buttermilk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped dates
- Nutmeg
- To prepare Crust: In a bowl combine flour, cornmeal and salt. Cut in butter and lard until mixture resembles small peas. Sprinkle milk over flour mixture, 1 tablespoon at a time, mixing lightly with a fork after each addition. Gather up dough with fingers; shape into ball. On floured surface flatten ball of dough slightly; roll 1/8-inch thick into a circle 1-inch larger than diameter of a 9-inch pie plate. Fit into pie plate and ease pastry into plate. Fold extra dough over and build up on rim of pie plate; flute edge.

To prepare Filling: In a small mixing bowl cream butter; gradually add sugar. Beat in eggs, one at a time; fold in flour, lemon rind and salt. Stir in buttermilk, vanilla and dates. Pour into pie shell; sprinkle with nutmeg. Bake in a preheated 375 degree oven 40-45 minutes or until a knife inserted near center comes out clean. Remove to wire rack to cool.

A pastry brush dipped in water will do a good job of washing down crystals from the side of a saucepan when making candy.

When a recipe directs you to cook a sugar mixture until it "spins a thread," use a candy thermometer and cook to 230 to 234 degrees.

DATE DESSERT

Southern touches like buttermilk and cornmeal and a generous use of eggs and butter distinguish this delectable new date dessert. Bake Buttermilk Date Pie for a family treat or serve at your next ladies' luncheon.

MONSTER SALAMI

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Corrado Viola had one burning ambition — to make the world's biggest salami.

And when he turned out a monster sausage five feet long and weighing nearly 100 pounds, he thought he'd probably succeeded.

Viola, 37, a chef in an Italian restaurant in Johannesburg, spent two days making his salami. He had to use a plastic skin because he couldn't find an orthodox casing big enough.

Viola proudly hung it from the ceiling of the restaurant, adorned with red, green and white ribbons of the Italian national colors.
